West Marin School Tax Vote Tomorrow

Voters in the West Marin Union Elementary School District tomorrow will decide if the operating tax limit should be raised from $1.60 to $2.40 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The school district board requested the election in the face of rising operating costs and dropping assessed valuation. The district has already started to lose land from its assessment rolls due to federal purchase for the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Supt. Howard F. Brose has predicted that local tax revenue will drop by 23 per cent in a period of three years during land purchase.

At the same time, the total district budget, now at $131,000, should go to about $140,000 if needs are to met next year. Among these needs, Brose listed possible salary increases for teachers, an increase from 13 to 14 in the teaching staff and the need to build up operating reserves.

Reserves will be down to $1,000 at the end of this fiscal year, forcing the distict to borrow county funds to make the finaly July payment of $3,000 for three acres adjacent to the school at Point Reyes Stattion.

Brose said there has been no adjustment in the teacher salary for two years.

Should the measure be defeated tomorrow, salary adjustment would be ruled out, the staff would probably have to be cut from 13 to 12 and Brose would have to take on fulltime teaching in addition to his role as superintendent.

The school board called the election after it became evident that no federal support was forthcoming due to the loss of revenue from federal purchase.

In 1960, then Supt. George Stratton predicted that the tax rate would have to be increased by one third if federal aid would not be given. The board, thus, was alerted to the need four years ago.

Brose could not say if the trustees would levy the full $2.40 of the general fund tax next year if it should be approved. It will depend, he said, on how much reserve the board wishes to build the first year.

The district had an 80-cent operating tax until 1959 when voters approved an increase to $1.60.

In addition to the current $1.60 operating tax, the district has 34 cents in ovevrrides taxes which includes 22 cents for bond interest and redemption giving a total present tax of

Car Smashes Through Wall Of Office

A 20-year-old San Rafael man Saturday missed the turn from the Highway 101 off-ramp to Mission Avenue, and his 1957 Ford convertible crashed through the wall of the Marin Society for Crippled Children office at 6:35 Mission Aevnue, ending up inside.

David Raymond Zehr of 255 Canal Street, was treated for a bruise of the head at San Rafael General Hospital, and cited by the California Highway Patrol for reckless driving.

The accident, which caused extensive damage to the society's headquarters, brought a plea from Dr. Paul Steinman, society president, for increased donations to the current Easter Seal campaign to offset costs of repairing the damage.

Zehr's car tore down a stop sign, "no left turn" sign and the society's ornamental wooden identification sign, according to M. J. Cordone of San Ra-

Fairfax Youth Found Near Death At Creek; May Have Been Left Behind In Accident

A 17-year-old Fairfax youth came witnin one inch of drowning yesterday.

Richard Byron Abbott of 44 Creek Road lay pinned under his car in shallow water of Papermill Creek off Sir Francir Drake Boulevard for about three hours.

He was finally spotted by Mrs. Lois Power, wife of Neil Power, superintendent of Samuel P. Taylor State Park, who was driving to her job as a nurse at Marin General Hospital at 6:30 a.m.

He may have been abandoned, said Deputy Sheriff William S. Christensen and Highway Patrolman Arthur Olson, by another youth in the car.

Abbott, a junior at Sir Francis Drake High School, was in only "fair" condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken jaw and skull, face cuts and a serious injury to his left eye. A hospital spokesman said he would probably lose the sight of his eye.

Power, who was summoned to the scene of the accident by his wife, said the youth's mouth and nose were about one inch above the creeks waters.

His arm, which was outside the car, was pinned under a large tree limb, the rest of his

Will Resist Reds, Johnson Pledges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Lyndon B. Johnson today pledged the full power of the United States to resist the intrusion of communism in any Latin American nation.

Johnson spoke before the Organization of American States on the third anniversary of the Alliance For Progress, a Latin American development program sponsored by the late President John F. Kennedy as an extension of the so-called good neighbor policy of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The president said there must be increased cooperation, a greater degree of self help on the part of Latin American countries to make the alliance effective.

"At the same time," he said in his prepared remarks, "we must protect the alliance against the efforts of communism to tear down what we're building.

The president cited as evidence of the communist teardown in Latin America recent "Cuban aggression in Venezuela."

"We will soon discuss how best we can meet these threats to our independence," he said. "But I now assure you that the full power of the United States is ready to assist any country whose freedom is threatened by forces directed from beyond the shores of our own continent."

"The enemies of freedom seek to harass us at every turn," Johnson said. He said this involved "a struggle for the destiny of the American republics."

He was, however, optimistic about chances for the alliance to prosper and defeat the threat of communism.

"Our alliance will prosper because we do have faith—not idle hope, but the same faith that enabled us to nourish a new civilization in these spacious continents," Johnson said.

Johnson Starts War On Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson gave Congress marching orders today for the war on poverty, concentrating his 962-million-dollar attack on helping needy young Americans.

The program to help youngsters in the 16 to 20 age bracket centers on a job corps reminiscent of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s.

The job corps would enlist up to 100,000 young men, draft rejects and school dropouts.

DeGaulle In Mexico For 3-Day Visit

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — French President Charles De Gaulle arrived today for a three-day state visit interpreted as a challenge to U. S. political leadership in Latin America.

Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was on hand to greet De Gaulle. Cabinet members and other high officials also were present for the welcoming ceremonies.

A brilliant tropical sun that dispelled a morning haze set the stage for De Gaulle's arrival. For two hours prior to his arrival, all flights in and out of the international airport were suspended for security reasons.

This city of five million was in a festive mood for the arrival of the French president, 17th head of state to meet with Lopez Mateos since the latter took office in 1958. De Gaulle came here from Paris, via Guadeloupe Island, in the French West Indies, where he spent last night, and Merida.

De Gaulle was greeted by a cheering multitude as he landed in this ancient Aztec capital. He drove immediately to the national palace to start off a busy, three-day official program.

Red Shot At Searchers Told

BERLIN (UPI)—A Russian sentry's warning shot turned back an American Army search party from the wreckage of a U.S. jet reconnaissance bomber shot down in Communist East Germany, reliable sources said today.

U.S. diplomatic and military spokesmen refused to confirm or deny the report.

Court Indicates Redistricting In Marin Needed

The State Supreme Court indicated today it is not satisfied with the redistricting of Marin County supervisorial districts which was approved Jan. 31 by Marin Superior Court.

The supreme court gave no immediate decision at the close of a one-hour hearing in San Francisco on the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce's appeal from the Jan. 31 decision. But Chief Justice Phil S. Gibson set the tone of the hearing when he said, "If the supervisors refuse to act, then it is the duty of the court to act, isn't it?"

"From 1884 to 1964, the supervisors did nothing about redistricting," declared Justice Raymond E. Peters. He then demanded of County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, "You say this is not stalling?"

Maloney said he did not so interpret it. "I think it was just an honest difference of opinion," he declared.

If redistricting is delayed until after the Novamber election, said Justice Peters, the board of supervisors could still have this "honest difference of opinion" and postpone redistricting indefinitely.

RAISES QUESTION

Justice Mathew O. Tobriner raised the question whether the June 2 primary could be eliminated, as far as the supervisorial election is concerned, to give the court time to redraw boundaries for the November election. This question was not answered during the hearing.

John P. Rooney, Larkspur attorrney who filed the appeal, was accompanied by Denis M. Day, a San Anselmo attorney. Rooney and Day asked the supreme court to declare the earlier redistricting null and void and have supervisors elected at large.

If this were done, asked Justice Peters, what would happen to voters in the Fifth District (Novato), where Supervisor William A. Gnoss's term has two year's to run? "Then the voters in Novato wouldn't vote?" he asked.

ALSO BALLOT

Rooney said the Novato voters would also ballot on the four supervisors up for election this year.

"Then they get two votes," pointed out Peters.

Chief Justice Gibson, who grilled Maloney closely, said the 4 per cent of the population given the Fourth District (West Marin) by the Jan. 31 redistricting is far too small.

"We thought a 9 per cent in Monterey County was small enough," he said.

Maloney contended that under the law, redistricting cannot be done within 90 days of a general election, so the district lines cannot now be changed for the June 2 balloting. Furthermore, to nullify the previous redistricting now would cause serious confusion because the June election is so close at hand, he emphasized.

Midway in the hearing, Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas T. Storer, a candidate for supervisor from the Fourth District, spoke up as an interested party. He said the feeling of the people of Marin is that they do not want another redistricting right now. They want to go through with the June election on the present lines, he claimed.

It was Rooney's suit on behalf of the junior chamber of commerce that brought the Jan. 31 redistricting. That was done

Forest Knolls Wife Jailed In Wounding With Butcher Knife

A Forest Knolls man, William Roger Mason, 40, was stabbed in the chest late Saturday in an altercation at his home.

His wife, Madoline Ann, 24, was held in Marin County jail today for investigation at attempted homicide. Bail was set at $5.500.

San Rafael General Hospital said Mason's condition today was fair. He remained in the intensive care unit, however, with 24-hour observation.

According to the sheriff's office, Mrs. Mason said her husband "kicked her out" of the home, located behind the Forest Knolls Post Office, last Thursday. She said she returned Saturday, but he still was "not friendly."

Deputies quoted her as saying she declared she was not going to leave until Mason obtained a divorce, and that he became abusive. She said she threatened to stab him, that he went to the kitchen, obtained a butcher knife, gave it to her and "dared" her to commit the act.

A neighbor, Lee Arthur Fairchild, saw Mrs. Mason running in her slip down an alley, and learned from her of the stabbing. He called deputies, according to the report.

Fired Deputy McKillop Drops Appeal, Resigns

William N. McKillop, one of two sheriff's deputies fired Feb. 5, today tendered his resignation to Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos.

Effect of the resignation will be to cancel a hearing on his appeal from the discharge, which was scheduled for Friday before the Marin County Personnel Commission.

In his letter to the sheriff, McKillop wrote:

"After very careful consideration, I hereby wish to tender my resignation as deputy sheriff. . .

"I do so without any threats or promises from the sheriff's department.

"At this time, I would like to express that it has been a pleasure to work under your direction, and it is with deep

Brush Fires Inch Into Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wind-whipped mountain brush fires seared nearly 1,000 acres of watershed and damaged homes in communities north of Los Angeles today and inched into the city limits.

High winds buffeted the entire area and gusts up to 60 miles an hour hampered efforts of fire fighters to control the spreading flames. The tinder-dry mesquite and undergrowth that has had a fraction of normal rainfall this year erupted in hot spots that leaped fire lines.

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Khaki-clad soldiers, mostly French-speaking teen-agers from Canada's famed Royal 22nd Regiment, embarked on planes through the night for the troubled island of Cyprus.

Royal Canadian Air Force aircraft carrying the peace-keeping troops took off at two hour intervals. The movement was called "Operation Snowgoose."

The soldiers carried little-league baseball bats to be used as night sticks, money in United States dollars, and a month's food rations.

Belli Rushes Appeal For Jack Ruby

Fears For Life Of Killer; Hits At Dallas, Judge

DALLAS (UPI)—Defense lawyer Melvin Belli, worried that Jack Ruby would be "put in a hole someplace and killed by a guy with a shiv," today hastened to open his appeals battle.

He was scheduled to take the case to the Texas Criminal Court of Appeals in Austin, Tex.

Ruby, found guilty of the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, will be held without bond in the Dallas County Jail until the case goes through the appeals courts.

ASSAILS DALLAS

Belli said yesterday he feared the night club operator may either be killed in jail or commit suicide before appeals of his death sentence can be made.

"Yes sir, I do hold concern fo· his life," Belli said. "That would be the way to prevent an appeal . . . another way for Dallas to dispose of him.

Belli and Joe H. Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., shouted "Appeal! Appeal!" when Judge Joe B. Brown read the death sentence verdict of the jury Saturday. The jury of eight men and four women had deliberated only two hours and 24 minutes.

CLAIMS SUPPORT

Belli, a San Francisco lawyer, said he had been flooded with telegrams from persons appalled at the verdict.

Brown praised Belli after the verdict was returned and said he was "welcome back in my court anytime."

But Belli said yesterday "I don't need Judge Brown's compliments. I'm sorry I shook hands. He had blood on it (sic). He told me in private he wouldn't have given up this case for love or money."

"The trial was the greatest kankaroo railroading disgrace in the history of American law," Belli said. He estimated the case would be in the appeals courts six months, but added that Ruby "may be insane by the time of appeal."

The normal channel of federal appeals is from district to circuit court of appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The San Francisco lawyer has said he has 30 points of reversable error on which to base his appeal.

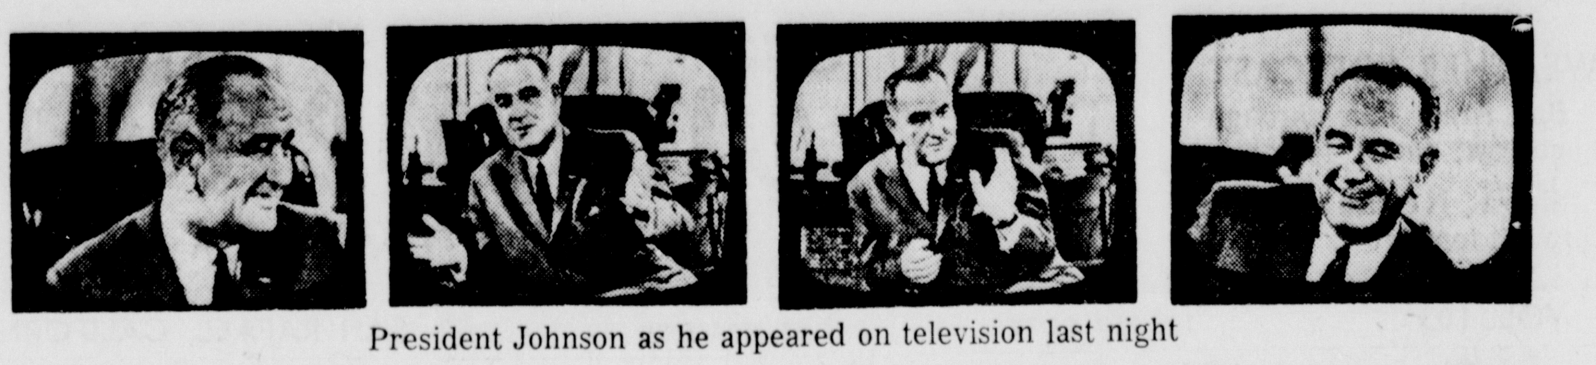
Dist. Atty. Henry Wade, who prosecuted the case, said he thought the facts warranted the verdict and estimated it would take two or three years before the case is settled.

Former Senator J.M. Mead Dies

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—James M. Mead, 78, former Democratic U.S. senator and representative from New York, died yesterday after a short illness.

Mead served as a member of the House of Representatives for 20 years before he was elected to the Senate in 1938. He left the Senate in 1946 for an unsuccessful effort to unseat former Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Mead was a member of the Federal Trade Commission from 1949 to 1955.



President Johnson as he appeared on television last night

Johnson Dismisses 'Rift' With Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson says he has no indication that Henry Cabot Lodge plans to leave his post as ambassador to South Vietnam.

"If he did, I am sure he would let me know," Johnson told a nationwide radio and television audience last night. He added that the ambassador, whose political stock boomed with victory in New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary, has tended to business and behaved properly.

On his own side of the political fence, Johnson dismissed as "newspaper talk" reports of a rift with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and said he has taken Kennedy's word that he has done nothing to encourage efforts to boom the attorney general for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Johnson said he hopes the Democrats will not campaign actively until after this summer's convention, although he said he intends to "carry out some commitments that President Kennedy made for fund-raising dinners from time to time."

Politics and foreign policy dominated the hour-long "Conversation with the President," broadcast by the ABC, CBS and NBC radio and television networks. These were among the chief executive's other major pronouncements:

He has had no contact with his old friend, Bobby Baker, since Baker resigned in October as secretary to the Senate's Democrats. The president said Baker could not properly be called his protege because "he was there before he came to the Senate for 10 years."

He intends to be "a people's president." And he will continue to mix with crowds even though his bodygaurds "would feel better if the president kept 100 yards distance from every human being."

Congress should make certain the nation always has a vice president, but he doesn't have any "deep-set views on just how that should be done."

His most vivid memory of the days following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy is of Mrs. Kennedy. "I saw her greatness, her gallantry, her graciousness, her courage and it will always be a vivid memory."

Johnson said the presidency "is a much tougher job from the inside than I thought it was from the outside." But he said "I am enjoying what I am doing" and "I never felt better in my life."

"I may not be a great president," he said, "but as long as I am here, I'm going to try to be a good president."

N.Y. School Boycott In Slow Start

NEW YORK (UPI) — A second boycott of city public schools, launched without the backing of major civil rights groups, got off to a slow start today.

The boycott came on the heels of a warning by Police Commissioner Michael Murphy that "irresponsible" civil rights leaders would not be allowed to turn the nation's largest city into a civil rights "battleground."

The boycott was supported by such controversial Negro leaders as Malcolm X, the militant black nationalists, and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.).

At 8:30 a.m. EST, police reported a total of 332 pickets at 79 schools throughout the city, far short of the turnout at the same time of day in the successful Feb. 3 boycott. A spokesman at boycott headquarters, however, claimed that at least 153 schools were picketed, most of them in Brooklyn.

Only a handful of pickets were noted in Harlem, heart of the city's Negro population and backbone of the first boycott.

Students trooped into Benjamin Franklin High School in East Harlem at "the normal rate," according to a school spokesman, in contrast to the heavy absenteeism Feb. 3.

The same situation was reported at most other Harlem schools.

U.S. Denies Reported Pact To Resume Relations With Panama

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. spokesman has squelched optimism arising from an Organization of American States announcement that the United States and Panama had agreed to resume diplomatic relations.

The situation was further confused when an aide to Panama's President Roberto Chiari confirmed in Panama City the agreement announced by the OAS.

Panama broke diplomatic relations with the United States Jan. 10 after rioting in the Panama Canal Zone left 21 persons dead and some 200 wounded. It said it would not resume relations until the United States agreed to renegotiate the 1903 treaty under which it has perpetual rights to operate the canal.

For its part, the United States said resumption of diplomatic relations must precede any talks about the canal's future.

Last night's announcement by Ambassador Juan Plate of Paraguay, chairman of the special OAS committee investigating the crisis and seeking a reconciliation, said:

"The governments of the Republic of Panama and of the United States of American have agreed to re-establish diplomatic relations as soon as possible to seek the prompt elimination of the causes of conflict relative to the Panama Canal."

The agreement calls for both countries to "designate special ambassadors with sufficient powers to carry out discussions and negotiations with the objective of reaching a fair and just agreement."

It added that diplomatic relations will be resumed "as soon as possible."

A statement from the U.S. source said:

"The United States Government and the Government of Panama have had no meeting of the minds on either the resumption of relations or the procedures to be followed in an attempt to solve the problems surrounding the Panama disturbances."

Effect of the decision was to relieve the employers of payment for unemployment insurance.

MOTHER PLEADS FOR SON

A woman throws herself on the ground at the feet of a South Vietnam soldier and begs for the release of her son who was taken prisoner as a suspected Viet Cong guerrilla. Her son was one of about 300 men who were rounded up in a raid by the South Vietnam troops in an area of Cai Cai, near the Cambodian border, last Saturday. The prisoners were flown out of the area in U.S. Army helicopters—one of which is in the background. (AP Wirephoto)

Indigent Care Change Asked

A special committee studying Marin County's medical program has suggested reopening the contract between the county and San Rafael General Hospital, allowing Marin General Hospital to make a bid for serving indigent patients.

The county contract with San Rafael General Hospital was signed in 1958, and, although it has been changed several times, has never been opened for new bids, the committee noted.

County Administrator Alan Bruce, reporting for the committee, added that the price charged by San Rafael General has risen from time to time, and average cost to the county now is $44 a day per patient.

A contract will have to be signed with Marin General Hospital, Bruce said, to qualify some patients there for aid under the federally-supported medical aid to the aged program.

The committee making the study included Drs. Calvin Plumhof and Arthur Ablin from the Marin Medical society, county medical director Michael Scholl, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, and Bruce.

Other recommendations included making a gradual change, where possible, to make more use of private physicians on fee basis, rather than doctors on monthly retainer with the county. A plan to eliminate the present medical clinic setup, allowing private physician treatment and billing through California Physicians Service, had been dropped earlier as too expensive.

Further study was asked on the idea of limiting the county medical department services only to the medically indigent, but having persons eligible for other welfare aid served through the welfare department.

An increase of service to juvenile hall, providing 24-hour on-call emergency service, was also recommended.

Rockets Fired Prematurely In Sausalito Experiment

A pair of determined young "do it yourself" rocketers are eagerly looking forward to the results tonight when they view movies made during an ambitious space experiment Saturday.

Only when they see the films will Dave Guidici, 21, and Kelly MacDonald, 20, of El Cerrito, know whether their launching of two rockets from a balloon was a success or a failure.

Things started to go wrong, MacDonald said yesterday, when the balloon—which was supposed to climb to 80,000 feet before the rockets went off — burst at 20,000 feet. A safety device automatically sent the rockets soaring, and they later were recovered, along with the movie films, in San Francisco Bay near San Francisco International Airport.

Two rockets, one finned, the other finless, went up. Since the object was to find which one would be more stable, MacDonald explained, the big question now is whether the lower altitude was high enough to tell this.

There also is a possibility the cameras were jolted enough by the balloon's explosion that they failed to record the outcome, he added.

MacDonald said he and Guidici would decide, after viewing the films, whether to repeat the launching. If it is repeated, he said, it may be done within two weeks.

Noting that the balloon came from a batch of six in which one other had also failed prematurely, MacDonald said they would use one from a different batch if the project is carried out again.

The young space scientists were pleased with other phases of the launching, carried out from the deck of the schooner Vivica, owned by Mel Petersen of Sausalito.

But even if the films indicate a failure, Saturday's outing may have paved the way towards success for next August's "Project Searcher," an orbital launching which the two hope to make from a remote Pacific island.

The launching was covered by Life magazine, and MacDonald indicated the magazine might pay for exclusive rights to the story, which could go far toward providing enough money to carry out the project.

Of the total U.S. population in 1962, 7.7 per cent, or one person in 13, lived on farms.

Meeting Hears How To Develop Fairfax

Methods of preserving undeveloped areas in the City of Fairfax were described to the 75-member audience attending "Beauty and the Bulldozer," a town meeting Friday night sponsored by the Fairfax Citizens Master Plan and Conservation Study Group.

Members of the panel were San Rafael Mayor John F. McInnis, past president of the Assn. of Bay Area Governments; Ray Crisp of Terra Linda, a representative of the Housing and Home Finance Agency; Jack Davis of the planning consultant firm of Livingston and Blayney of San Francisco, and Gilbert Murphy, an architect and former member of the Sausalito Planning Commission.

Mayor McInnis told of ABAG's interest in acting as a liaison for local governments seeking financial aid for "open space" planning. He said the need for such planning was increasing with the 70 per cent growth in Marin County's population from 1950 to 1960 and the expectation that the present population of approximately 174,000 will almost double by 1975.

Murphy described problems the Sausalito Planning Commission had faced with increased development in that city and told of the pressure placed upon local governments which made it difficult to preserve open space.

Davis outlined various methods of zoning which would provide for undeveloped areas surrounding housing developments. He emphasized that public ownership of property was not necessary to guarantee open space in a community if the new methods of zoning, such as establishment of slope, large lot and cluster zoning areas, were utilized.

Crisp told of the interest of the federal government in helping cities purchase land to preserve undeveloped areas which would serve an entire region, not merely one city. He said the federal agency could finance up to 30 per cent of the cost of acquisition of undeveloped land or property on which buildings of historical significance stood.

Belvedere Fall Injures Youth

Gerald Strong, 18, of 114 Altura Way, Greenbrae, suffered a bruised back yesterday after taking a 20-foot tumble from a Belvedere deck. He was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Strong, a visitor in the home of Dr. Bradford Simmons, 26 Eucalyptus Avenue, fell from a "narrow deck with no guard rail" at about 12:01 p.m. onto a cement sidewalk, according to police. He was found lying on his back and was cared for by Dr. Donovan Cooke until the arrival of an ambulance.

4 Americans Given Long Terms In Spain Murder

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A Spanish civil court sentenced four Americans, a Spanish woman and a British girl to long prison terms today for the robbery-murder of a Barcelona furniture dealer.

The sentences were:

James Bell Wagner, 23, of Union Beach, N.J., 30 years;

Maria del Pila Alfaro Velasco, 32, Spanish mother of two daughters, 23 years;

John Joseph Hand, 40, Southfield, Mich., and James Stephen Johnston, 30, Bluejacket, Okla., 21 years each;

Nancy Karen Hand, 25, Detroit, Mich., 12 years and one day.

Joan Douglas Bryder, 22, a British librarian, six years.

Court attaches said the prison terms would be cut at least in half by an amnesty which Generalissimo Franco ordered.

The six prisoners were arrested after the slaying Nov. 17, 1962, of Francisco Robirosa, 50, in his shop. The crime netted only $33 in loot.

Intruder Flees San Rafael Bar

David Lucas, bartender at George's Recreation Center 842 Fourth Street, San Rafael, reported to San Rafael police last night that he came upon someone prowling in the center storage room and tried to restrain him, but the prowler got away.

There was nothing disturbed in the storage room and there was no evidence of forced entry, police said.

Lucas said the man, 19-20 years of age, about six-foot, two inches, pulled away from him and ran out the front door.

Controversial Stable Wins 5-2 Approval

A use permit for a riding club for Forest Knolls was approved today by a 5-2 vote of the Marin County planning commission, over objections of neighboring residents who complained of odors and flies.

The permit will only be good until Sept. 30, horseman David A. Robart was told. New zoning for the San Geronimo Valley, approved by the board of supervisors, will go into effect March 25, a[illegible] does not allow such a use.

Robart said he would shop around for a new location, and added that a concession within nearby Samuel P. Taylor State Park might be available next summer.

Objections to the use came mainly from Winifred S. Frederick and Mrs. Earl A. Frank.

Opposition on the commission was led by commissioner Henry C. Hankins, who said three years of study were spent on drawing the new zones for the region. He said approval of the use would undermine this work.

Hankins was joined by commissioner William F. Upton in the final dissenting vote.

2 Novatans Hurt As Auto Flips

Two persons were injured when a car driven west of the Novato-Hicks Valley Road hit an embankment and rolled over one mile east of the Petaluma-Point Reyes Road at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

The driver, William C. Thomas of 1305 Denlyn Street, Novato, was treated for cuts on his elbows at Novato General Hospital, and a passenger, Dennis McCormick, 21, of 1117 Olive Street, Novato, was treated for a cut right hand.

Robin Baugh, 12, of Petaluma, was treated at Novato General Hospital for a cut forehead after the car driven by her mother, Anita, 30, was involved in a rear-end accident on Highway 101, just south of the Novato city limits, at 5:10 p.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Baugh was cited by the California Highway Patrol for speeding and following too closely after her car hit the rear of one driven by Lillian Geers, 16, of Petaluma in the northbound lane of Highway 101.

Chairman Gnoss and George H. Ludy, Fourth District incumbent, were present in the courtroom, as were County Clerk George H. Gnoss and new Deputy County Counsel James Dungin.

The Santa Clara case, to which the court turned immediately after hearing the Marin case, is on a redistricting suit brought there by the San Jose Junior Chamber of Commerce.

$1.94 per $100 of assessed valuation. If the increase in operating tax were approved and the overrides remain the same, the tax could go to $2.74.

There are 718 eligible voters in the district. Two polling places, one at Inverness Fire Station and the other at the county fire station at Point Reyes Station will be open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A simple majority is all that is needed for passage.

"There has been no organized opposition," Brose said. "What I'm worried about is apathy."

Sedan Stolen

Nicholas Morf of 9 Lido Lane, San Rafael, reported to police Saturday that a 1964 Ford sedan registered to George and Pantagiota Morf of the same address was stolen from the city parking lot at Third and A Streets between 8:30 and 11 p.m. The car door and ignition were locked, he said.

McGraw-Hill Site Gets Approval Of Planners

Although it will require a change in the present and proposed north Marin Master Plan, the Marin County Planning Commission today quickly approved rezoning of the 100-acre site of the future McGraw-Hill book distribution center north of Novato.

Principal Planner Rowland Darnell said all industrial property shown in master plan studies lies below sea level at high tide and would have to be filled, except for one small parcel near the Sonoma county border.

He said no land west of highway 101 was planned for industrial use, but the Bodkin estate, across from the Marin county airport, was unusual in that it was isolated from possible nearby residential developments by two large hills. He said use of the site by the company, with an absence of all possible nuisances except possibly traffic, would not hurt neighboring areas.

Commissioner Charles R. Johnson, noting the closeness of the airport, added that more work should be done to improve that facility.

Darnell said that state highway 252 to Point Reyes may cross highway 101 near the proposed site for McGraw-Hill. He showed a drawing of the effect an interchange would have in the area, and said a frontage road to the east side of the proposed new alignment of highway 101 would be justified.

Commissioner William F. Upton moved for approval of the zone change from agricultural to planned industrial, after hearing that land on each side of the property would be maintained as a buffer by McGraw-Hill. The vote was ununimous.

Sheriff's Office Seeking Robbers Of Taxi Drivers

A pair of gunmen who robbed two San Francisco taxi drivers in separate incidents after forcing them tto drive to Tamalpais Valley in Marin County late Saturday were sought today by Marin County sheriff's office.

One of the victims was kidnapped, forced to ride in the cab's trunk while the abductor apparently drove back and forth over the Golden Gate Bridge "several" times, deputies said.

Charles Leon Frederick, 41, driver of Yellow Cab, told officers a slender young man with dark, curly hair took his cab in San Francisco about 9 p.m. and gave Stinson Beach as his destination.

Frederick said at Pine Street on the Shoreline Highway the man ordered him to halt, drew a .32-caliber automatic, and took about $25, a 14-karat gold watch, and a ring with initials "G.L." on it.

Frederick was then forced into the trunk and the bandit began the drive, the victim told sheriff's deputies.

The cab was abandoned some two hours later, according to the report, and Frederick kicked his way into the vehicle's back seat. He flagged a passing car, and was taken to the California Highway Patrol in Corte Madera.

The second cab driver, Clifford Ray Hutchinson, told officers his Luxor Cab was hailed at 11:15 p.m. in San Francisco and the customer, also desribed as young and having curly hair, declared his wife had driven off without him, and gave a destination of Tamalpais Valley.

Hutchinson was also halted at the Pine Street intersection, deputies said, and a gun held to his forehead while he was robbed of his wallet containing between $25 and $30, and a ring.

The cab driver told officers he resisted orders to get in the cab trunk because of cramped space, and instead fled to a nearby house to summon deputies.

Officers said despite the similar descriptions of the gunmen, the overlapping time element indicated two men were involved.

It then broke down a foot-high concrete curbing and tore a large hole in the front wall, he said.

Cordone said the convertible tore studding from beneath the building and destroyed looms, phonographs and other materials stored for use by children at the building.

In his statement, Dr. Steinman said:

"This makes even more pressing the society's need for donations to our Easter Seal campaign, some of which will have to be used for extensive repairs of the building in replacement of damaged equipment and facilities used for helping Marin County handicapped children and adults."

Society officials do not believe the damage will be covered by insurance, Dr. Steinman said.

Mrs. Schultz Files For State Senate

Mrs. Vera L. Schultz, former member of the Mill Valley City Council and Marin County Board of Supervisors, has filed for the Democratic nomination for State Senate.

Mrs. Schultz, who announced her intentions last Feb. 11, filed for the post Friday in Marin County Clerk's office. The senatorial post is held by Republican John F. McCarthy, who has indicated he will seek re-election.

Elected to the Mill Valley council spot in 1945, Mrs. Schultz ran in 1950 for the Democratic nomination for Assembly but was defeated by Republican Richard McCollister.

Colonel's Son Shot In Target Practice

John L. Parker Jr., 14, son of Col. John L. Parker Sr. of 304 Olive Street, Novato, was treated yesterday at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital for a gunshot wound in the left foot.

The gun was accidentally discharged by a friend, Jeff Moats, 14, also of Novato, while they were target practicing east of Novato, about 4:30 p.m., Marin County sheriff's office reported.

3 Hurt As Car Turns Over

Three San Francisco men were treated at Marin General Hospital Saturday afternoon after the station wagon in which they were riding turned over as they were southbound on Highway 101 near the southern city limits of Corte Madera.

The driver, Roberto O. Escobar, 25, suffered multiple scrapes and bruises. He was cited by California Highway Patrolmen for speeding and making an unsafe lane change.

Purse, Ring Stolen From Woman's Car

Mrs. Juanita Paysinger Johns of San Francisco, reported the theft of several items, including a purse containing a wedding ring valued at $300, from her car parked at the Indian Valley Golf Course near Novato Saturday.

In addition to the purse, Mrs. Johns told the Marin County sheriff's office, a car coat, bowling ball and bag were also missing, although another ball and a sweater were left in the car. Entry was made by prying open a vent window.

Ross School Progress Report Due Tonight

A progress report by the Citizens Committee for Quality Education in Ross will top the agenda of the Ross School board meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at Ross School.

Medical Check-Up

Mrs. Norman B. Livermore of Ross, founnder of the Marin Art and Garden Center, is expected to return home tomorrow after completeing a medical check-up at Marin General Hospital, her doctor said today.

Law Change For Aged Homes Asked

The Marin County Planning Commission today called for a change in county ordinance to permit boarding homes for the aged in residential areas by use permit.

Planner Ross Talley explained that the county welfare department has already licensed some homes, mainly for use of aged welfare recipients, and that a complaint brought an application from Austin J. Parfitt for two such homes in Santa Venetia, at 665 and 675 Rosal Way.

Parfitt said he had already installed fire larm systems in each house and said he and his wife would live in one of them. Talley said the house they lived in would be considered a home occupation.

Commissioner William F. Upton said he had such a use near his own home and any detriment to the area was minimal.

The commission granted Parfitt a six-month variance, and called for quick action to have the ordinance changed by that time to allow the use by use permit. Talley noted that the change would apply only to small boarding homes for aged persons, and would not allow boarding houses in general in single-family areas.

Man's Body Found Off Marin Coast

The body of an unidentified 30- to 40-year-old man was retrieved from the water near Rocky Point between Muir and Stinson beaches yesterday by the Coast Guard.

Listed as a probobe suicide victim, the man had been dead several days when his body, clothed only in a tie, shoes and socks, was spotted by the pleasure boat Yvette at 7:30 a.m.

No evidence of foul play was discovered by the San Francisco coroner's office and it has been assumed from his injuries that he jumped into the water from a high place, possibly Golden Gate Bridge.

James Scannell, deputy coroner, said that the man was five feet, nine inches tall and weighed about 180 pounds.

San Geronimo Responds Strongly For Gas Service

San Geronimo Valley resident have shown an enthusiastic response to a drive to show the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. there is a demand for natural gas service in the area.

E. L. Barnett of Forest Knolls, program chairman of the San Geronimo Valley Businessmen's Assn., said today some 400 of the valley's 1,100 homeowners had signed up since the survey began Saturday.

"We had 310 signatures by 4:45 p.m. yesterday," he said, "and I picked up another 100 signatures today."

Barnett said he and other backers of the survey are confident they will have signed up between 75 and 80 per cent of the area's homes by next Monday.

PG&E has indicated it will extend natural gas to the valley if 50 to 60 per cent of the homeowners say they want it.

"One thing I would like to make clear," Barnett said, "is that these people do not have to pay any deposit at the time they sign up."

Behan Still In Diabetic Coma

DUBLIN (AP) — Playwright Brendan Behan, 41, was reported slightly improved today but still in a diabetic coma.

He was given the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church yesterday.

BOY

body was pinned under the car.

Mrs. Power was driving to work from her home in the park when she spotted the litter from a car trunk strewn over the bridge. She first thought the spare tire, gasoline can and tools were litter left by Saturday visitors to the park.

Peering over the side of the bridge, Mrs. Power saw the car lying 15 feet below. She thought the 1948 model Chevrolet had been junked until she saw an arm protruding from the wreckage.

Mrs. Power returned home for her husband, who held the youth's head above the water until the tow truck arrived to lift the wreckage.

As he did to, Power related, young Abbott gasped, "Where is . . . " Power said he did not catch the name.

Higway Patrolman Olson said effects in the wrecked car indicated it had two occupants when it went over the bank into the creek.

James Colli of Olema was headed east on Drake Boulevard about 3:30 a.m. with a truckload of artichockes when he was stopped by a youth a few hundred yards south of the Taylor Park entrance. The youth told him "somebody was hurt down there."

Colli, who speaks broken English, told Deputy Christensen he offered to take the youth to a phone booth and give him a dime to call the sheriff. The youth "backed off and looked frightened," he said.

Colli reported the matter when he returned toward Olema, after Mrs. Power's discovery of the accident.

The park superintendent said Abbott was fortunate because many other parts of Papermill Creek are deeper. Power said the youth, who was conscious, was shivering from the cold. "The cold water was probably a help in numbing the pain and the shock," he said.

Abbott was driving westbound on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, one and one-half miles east of the entrance to the park, when his car veered across the eastbound lane, hit a redwood tree and plunged 15 feet off the east end of the bridge into the creek, Officer Olson said. He estimated the time of the accident as 3:30 a.m.

Olson said evidence at the scene indicated the second occupant had been injured.

The officer said Abbott would have died if he had not been spotted by Mrs. Power. Power said the park maintenance crews would not have passed the area until 9 a.m.

Deputy Christensen was investigating the possibility of some tie between the accident and the discovery of hundreds of medical items in Carson Creek about 8 a.m. yesterday by Jesse Joyce, a Marin Municipal Water District employee. The scene of this discovery was near that where Abbott's car went off the road.

Christensen said the items included many vials and bottles from prescription drugs, and a prescription blank from a Sonoma doctor's office.

He said Sonoma County authorities reported a rash of medical office burglaries.

DEPUTY

regret that I tender my resignation."

Sheriff Mountanos on Feb. 5 discharged McKillop and Deputy Sheriff George Johnsen, for "conduct unbecoming an officer."

McKillop said he was accused of pulling a gun on someone while off duty. He denied this, and engaged William J. Murphy as his attorney for the appeal.

Johnsen was accused of striking a man who was in custody of San Rafael police. He also denied the charge and engaged attorney Patrick Hallinan to represent him. His hearing has been twice postponed and there is no date set for it at present.

Elevator Fails, Woman Injured

A hill elevator that takes Patricia Ferganick from her home at 148 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, to the street below failed yesterday, dropping to the bottom and injuring her.

Miss Ferganick, 26, and a friend were about to start on a fishing trip, Mill Valley police reported. The elevator mechanism failed. Miss Ferganick suffered cuts on head and right forearm in the 1:42 p.m. accident. She was treated at Marin General Hospital.

They'll Mine The Ocean From A Base In Marin

Net Depot Lab Is Aid In Research

By DOROTHY SIMPERS

From the quiet shores of the Tiburon Peninsula, engineers and scientists of the U.S. Bureau of Mines will soon sail off to probe the ocean floor, searching for valuable minerals hidden beneath the seas.

In the waters between Monterey and Grays Harbor, Wash., and in laboratories and shops at the Naval Net Depot in Tiburon, they will develop a technology of mining the sea: a new field for the bureau.

On the seas they will work from a ship equipped for marine mining research. On land their research will be done amidst the deteriorating buildings, unkept grounds, crumbling piers, and piles of "junk" at the net depot.

John E. Crawford of 716 Birchwood Court, Terra Linda, a marine mining and nuclear engineer, heads this new marine mineral resources program. He had worked for the bureau in Washington since 1954 (and earlier for the Atomic Energy Commission), then became so intrigued with the potential of sea mining that he left a plush office to come here.

Crawford and his staff will do the same thing on the "wet lands" beneath the Pacific Ocean as the bureau does on dry land: Mining research.

The program is in the planning stage now, to get the project under way. If Congress grants the appropriation the office has asked, Crawford hopes to get started July 1 on a "modest program of active work."

The Bureau of Mines staff first set up headquarters at the depot in space rented from the Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wild Life. Last week the mines bureau moved into its own office in the 60-year-old former commandant's house. Both bureaus are under the Department of the Interior, and it is expected that the Department will take over the entire base when the Navy moves out completely. Only a Navy security guard and storage shack for electronic instruments remain.

"No one has really developed a technology of mining the sea," says Crawford. He has heard rumors of Russian interest in the field, but has never seen any document to substantiate this.

At first, the bureau plans to lease or charter a small work boat, 65 to 125 feet long, and install equipment on it.

Pier facilities at the depot will be used for the boat, and for ships of cooperating groups which will tie up there.

The bureau will work closely with the Scripps Institute of Oceanography and Oregon State University, both of which have made random samplings of undersea mineral deposits.

From this information the bureau knows that phosphorite is found around Monterey and San Francisco Bays, that platinum, gold and silver are beneath the seas near Cape Blanco. Farther up the coast are deposits of titanium, chromium, iron, rare earths, precious metals, potash.

The bureau's scientists and engineers will determine the quality of these deposits, plot their locations and depth. Samples will be brought to shore, tested, analyzed and examined for industrial value.

If the deposits are found to be valuable, and in quantity, engineers will work on the problem of extraction from the ocean floor.

Mineral deposits, Crawford notes, have a different appearance when found in the ocean than they do on land.

In their laboratories and shops the bureau staff will develop prototypes of equipment to be used in mining the sea.

The staff now includes a marine mining engineer (Crawford), a marine mechanical engineer, a geologist and secretary. Next year Crawford hopes to have about 15 people, the following year, 30-35, and eventually 75.

In initial stages the bureau will search for deposits on the continental shelf, 600 to 1,000 feet beneath the ocean. Later, as funds increase, the staff will probe deeper.

If the bureau finds minerals in quantity beneath the sea and ways to extract and use them, the United States may have sources of raw materials for which it now depends on other countries.

Manganese, for example, is found on the ocean floor, an much cobalt and nickel, too. Ninety per cent of the manganese now used in the United States is imported.

As the bureau's work continues, it plans eventually to use a vessel 150 feet or more for its ocean research. J. Leslie Goodier of 129 Canal Street, San Rafael, engineering project leader, says the Navy will give the bureau one of its "mothball" fleet vessels. He is now studying the different types to determine which will be the most adaptable.

Goodier will set up a model machine shop and fabricating shop in one of the Navy buildings the bureau will take over. He plans to convert one of the surplus spherical floats on the grounds to an observation sphere to view the ocean bottom up to 200 feet. "I'll put a hatch on it, observation ports and lights, and they'll lower me on a cable," he says enthusiastically. The sphere has a five-foot diameter.

When the Navy ship is acquired, he will outfit it for research, install sampling equipment and instruments. "If they can shoot a man a quarter of a million miles to the moon, I can get something up from 600 feet down," he says.

The bureau will convert the old Navy cafeteria to a laboratory. Ideally suited for this purpose, it has stainless steel sinks, ventilating hoods to carry away chemical vapors, ceramic floors and deep freeze storage facilities.

Goodier's enthusiasm for this new field seems typical of the rest of the staff. Crawford worked for two years planning this program part time while he was chief nuclear engineer for the bureau in Washington, and he declares happily, "I wouldn't give up the job for anything."

Also on the present staff are Harold E. Hess of 43 Fowler Court, San Rafael, a geologist; Lloyd Sjolander of San Francisco, administrative assistant, and Mrs. Connie Prohaska of 90 Hoag Avenue, San Rafael, secretary.

Next year the staff will welcome visitors to the facilities, to see the work being done in the laboratories and on the boat. None of the work is classified, Crawford notes, so school children and anyone else may visit.

CORE FROM OCEAN BOTTOM—Harold E. Hess, geologist with Bureau of Mines at Tiburon Net Depot, examines core taken by Navy from bottom of Pacific Ocean. Such cores, from depths all the way from 350 to 14,280 feet, help in finding where minerals may be mined beneath the waters of the sea.

BRIGHT FUTURE; DRAB PRESENT—The Bureau of Mines plans to conquer "new worlds" in its exploitation for undersea minerals from headquarters at Tiburon Net Depot. But the depot, abandoned by the Navy, is now in state of disrepair. J. Leslie Goodier, engineering project leader, stands on dock where sea has eroded earth.

NO USE FOR THESE — Left over from Navy occupation of the Tiburon Net Depot are these anchors, which are to be sold as surplus since property has been put to use by bureaus of the Department of the Interior.

Northgate Appeal Before Council Tonight

The San Rafael City Council will meet tonight in the city recreation center at 37 Union Street to accommodate the crowd expected for public hearing on the Northgate Garden Apartments zoning appeal.

The council will convene at 8 p.m. in the city hall, but will adjourn in the recreation center immediately after roll call, the Northgate hearing being the first item after approval of minutes of the March 2 meeting.

Residents in the neighborhood of the hill behind Northgate Shopping Center, where the Draper Companies propose to build 1,186 apartment units, have filed a petition of protest bearing more than 900 homes, plus numerous individual letters. The Terra Linda Valley Homeowners Assn., spearheading the opposition, has engaged the legal firm of Belli, Ashe & Gerry to help fight the apartment proposal.

William G. Corrigan of the San Rafael legal firm of Bagshaw, Martinelli, Weissich and Jordan announced today he has been retained to represent the Draper Companies.

Corrigan filed a request to withdraw the application for use permit, saying he wished time to review it and make recommendations to the company. The council will decide tonight whether to permit withdrawal of the use permit application or consider it in conjunction with the zoning.

The 82-acre hill was shown for apartment use on the county master plan for the area, which was adopted with its annexation to San Rafael nearly four years ago, but it has never been zoned. The Draper Companies seek "planned community" zoning, which requires approval of the proposed use as part of the zoning.

In those parts of the Terra Linda annexation zoned for apartments, the city requires 1,500 square feet of land area per unit. At this rate, the 82 acres would permit nearly 2,500 units. However, much of the hill is too steep to be buildable and the area proposed for the 1,186 units is only a small part of the acreage. The apartments would be in multi-story buildings.

While the apartment proposal is expected to produce most of the fireworks at tonight's meeting, the council has 21 other items on the agenda — including award of contract for public improvements in the million-dollar East San Rafael Assessment District No. 2, and first steps to create another bigger assessment district, to be known as San Rafael Canalways.

The canalways district is to provide a deep water channel along properties fronting on Francisco Boulevard and Highway 17, and extending clear to the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Attorney Samuel W. Gardiner, who owns part of the property, has been the moving force toward its creation.

A petition for the district has been signed by 14 property owners. According to Edwin N. Ness of the legal firm of Sturges, Den Dulk, Douglass and Anderson, who prepared the initial papers, this represents majority ownership of the 24 parcels involved. Dan Coleman and Associates have done the engineering.

East San Rafael Assessment District No. 2 was approved by the council March 2 despite a minority protest from San Rafael Newport and Fairfax Gardens subdivisions. Scheduled tonight is award of contract to Linscott Co. of San Rafael, low bidder at $807,261.

The council will also have from the public works department recommendation that low bidder Pacific Excavators of Albany be awarded the contract for demolishing city-owned buildings for extension of Third Street, at $1,785.

Bids are to be called for the Second Street storm drain project from Brooks to Lindaro street.

Whether to endorse the initiative which would make pay television illegal in California also is scheduled for discussion.

Billy Graham's Bible Is Stolen

LONDON (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham said last night his personal Bible was missing from his New York hotel room before he sailed for England last week. If it was stolen, he said, he hopes the thief will be "converted to reading it."

The red-bound Bible was given to Graham by a churchman in Manchester, England, when he had visited the city in 1960.

"If someone stole it, maybe they'll get converted to reading it," Graham said, "So I'm not the slightest bit perturbed about it."

Graham said, however, that "I attached a great deal of sentiment to that Bible" and had reported it missing to hotel authorities and police.

San Jose Staff Needs On Tap

Supt. Ralph Giovanniello will report on the San Jose School District staff needs for next year at the district board meeting at 8 p.m. today in the administration building.

The trustees will also name two principals for the summer school, hear a report on the building program, certify results of the March 10 bond election, name a school site committe for the new school east of highway 101, and set the date for kindergarten registration.

Thieves Get $500 At Nave Center

More than $500 was taken from stores in the Nave Shopping Center in Novato in a weekend burglary, Novato police reported.

The Family Shoe Store was missing $61.20; Todd's of California, approximately $200 in cash and $298 in checks and $46.36 in cash from the substation of the postoffice in Todd's according to police.

The burglar gained entrance by prying open the rear door of the Family Shoe Store, according to police. Entrance to Todd's was gained by cutting a 12-by-13 inch square hole in the wall which separates the two adjacent stores, the police reported.

The burglary was discovered by Herman S. Horowitz of 1113 Clayton Court, Novato, owner of Todd's of California, when he opened the store at 11 a.m. yesterday. The stores had been closed since 6 p.m. Saturday.

Police notified John W. Kane of Richmond, owner of the Family Shoe Store, who secured that building.

Postal inspectors were notified yesterday and are working on the case today, said Harry Overly, Novato postmaster.

Stolen Car Left On Parkway Divider

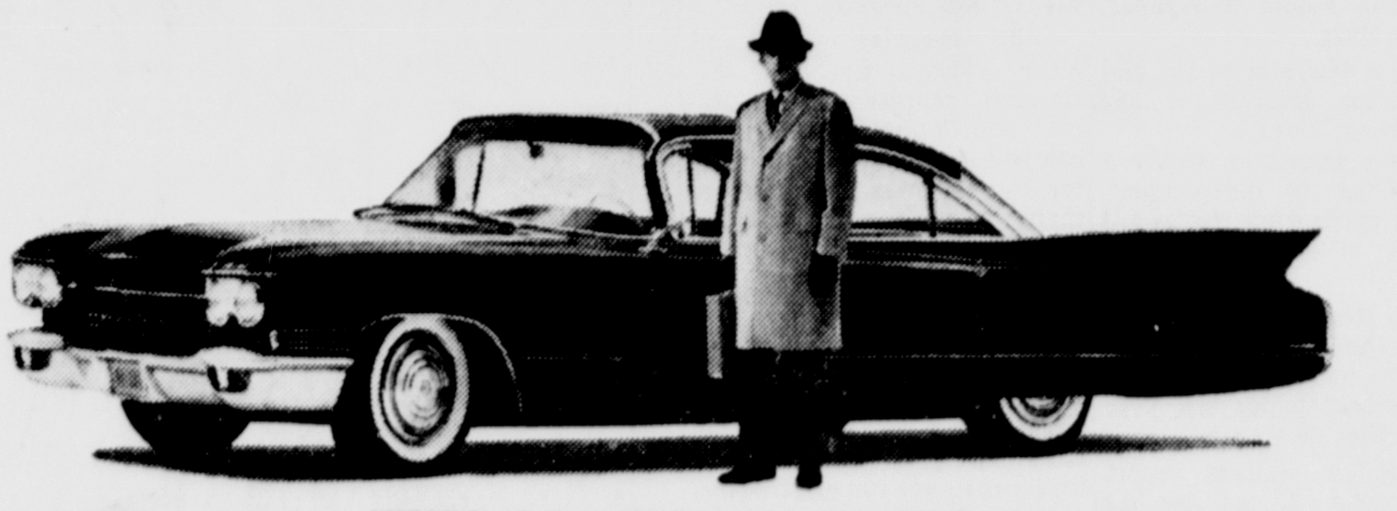
Sheriff's deputies yesterday sought unknown persons who stole an auto belonging to W. H. Fowler Jr., 650 Bamboo Terrace, Terra Linda, then abandoned it on the divider island of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway after hitting a tree.

The car was found a few minutes after the theft was reported by Fowler's son, Kenneth, 17, who said he had left the auto in the family's driveway, gone away with a friend, and returned to find it missing.

Cadillac

THIS OWNER LOVES IT!

THIS OWNER LOVES IT!



THIS OWNER LOVES IT!

The three pictures above illustrate one reason for their enthusiasm. The top car is a 1963 model . . . the center car is a 1962 Cadillac . . . and the lower car is four years old. The styling through the years has evolved and refined, but each is unmistakably a Cadillac.

These owners share a common knowledge. Not even most new motor cars offer the degree of pleasure and reliability that come with a previously owned Cadillac.

First, there is Cadillac's renowned craftsmanship, which results in a car of unusual endurance.

Next, consider value. The equipment on a Cadillac of older vintage is still extra cost on most new cars . . . and includes such features as Hydra-Matic, power steering, power brakes, power windows on most models . . . plus many Cadillac engineering advancements that still have not found their way into other new 1964 cars.

And don't overlook Cadillac's reputation for operating economy—comparable to many smaller cars.

So when you make your next motor car investment, new or used, consider only one name—Cadillac.

Chances Are Improved For 4th Superior Court

Chances have improved greatly for the approval by the state of a fourth superior court department for Marin County, according to Peter Allen Smith, president of the Marin County Bar Assn.

Smith, in a letter to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, said that State Chief Justice Phil Gibson has reversed his previous stand that the county's court calendar was not crowded enough to warrant another judge.

Gibson's opinion last year caused Gov. Edmund G. Brown to veto a measure passed by the legislature to create the new department. Smith, in his letter, asks the board at its meeting Tuesday to endorse the new bill in the Assembly, authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) for the new judge.

The board, which will meet at the Civic Center at 9 a.m. tomorrow, will also consider new arrangements for the Marin-Sonoma County Fair. Fair directors have invited the supervisors to participate in the opening day parade.

The directors have also suggested that the Miss Sonoma Fair contest be combined with one for Marin County. The winner would be entered in the statewide Maid of Cotton contest.

Insurance premiums for Marin County can be expected to total $52,521, according to county insurance advisor Walter Carter. He will recommend tomorrow, however, that the county add another five or 10 per cent to that figure for possible new programs or increases in rates.

Workmen's compensation was not included in the total, since it is handled through the state, rather than by a private insurance carrier.

Also on the agenda will be consideration of a reply to the grand jury on the report made for last year. The reply is due March 23, so tomorrow will be the last regular meeting to take up the subject.

The Marin County Housing Authority has renewed its annual request that in lieu taxes be paid by the county to the Sausalito School District for government land in Marin City.

Novato Motel Room Stripped

Marin County sheriff's deputies today sought a man who literally "cleaned out" a unit at the Tomahawk Motel, 8141 Redwood Highway, Novato, late last week.

Ralph C. Briggs of the motel told deputies the man, in his early 20s, hung a "Do Not Disturb" sign on the door after he rented the unit Thursday afternoon.

Entering the room the next day, a maid discovered that everything which had been in it — including blankets, linen, towels and a leased television set — was gone.

Briggs said the unit had been rented to a man registered as Virgil W. Stevens of Vacaville.

In response to an unprecedented number of requests, Bank of America is reprinting below, in its entirety, the contents of an open letter which was mailed March 12, 1964 to the Fair Employment Practices Commission, 332 West First Street, Los Angeles, California.

To: The Chairman, Fair Employment Practices Commission

From: Bank of America, N.T. & S.A.

My dear Madam Chairman:

As you are painfully aware, San Francisco has been the scene of severe disturbances of public order caused by demonstrations designed to force employers to sign agreements with various groups.

It is the conviction of this bank that law and orderly processes must be maintained. It is the further conviction of this bank that it should not sign any agreement or furnish any reports on the racial characteristics of its employes to any nongovernment agency. Nevertheless, the bank recognizes that a sincere and dedicated attempt to improve the economic opportunities of minority groups has been and should continue to be part of its civic responsibility. We also recognize that there is legitimate reason for the public to be fully informed as to the bank's progress in discharging this civic responsibility.

The purpose of this open letter to you is to publicly affirm the equal opportunity employment policies of Bank of America N. T. & S. A. and to outline the practices which this bank will follow to provide a continuing program of assuring minority group members equal employment opportunities in the bank.

They are:

1. The management of the bank has for some time had an established employment policy as follows: "To employ personnel who are qualified to perform the duties which may be expected of them, and to do this without regard to their race, religious creed, color, national origin, or ancestry." This statement is a quotation from the manual of instruction which is a standard item in every branch of the bank.

2. As in the past, FEPC Equal Opportunity signs will continue to be posted on all bank bulletin boards and places where employments are made.

3. As in the past, all classified advertising for employments placed by the bank will continue to carry the statement "An Equal Opportunity Employer."

4. When advertising for applicants in papers of general circulation, ads will also be placed in Negro papers published in the same areas.

5. The bank will continue to endeavor to increase its input of qualified minority group personnel through contact with the minority specialists of the California State Employment Service. The bank will also continue to actively seek the assistance of minority group organizations in referring qualified personnel to us.

6. The bank will, within the next 60 days, and every 90 days thereafter, analyze its staff to ascertain the aggregate number of employes and the aggregate number of such employes who are of minority racial groups. Such information will be broken down into its components of Negroes, Orientals, Latin Americans and "other" and will be reported by area, e. g.:

   (a) The state as a whole;

   (b) Metropolitan Bay Area (San Francisco, Alameda, and Contra Costa Counties);

   (c) The City of Los Angeles.

The figures will be delivered to the offices of the Fair Employment Practices Commission in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Sacramento so that this agency, which is charged with responsibility for enforcement of the Fair Employment Practices Act, may be fully informed on the status of the bank's staff.

7. Because our experience has clearly shown that a large proportion of minority racial applicants have not completed high school and cannot pass simple clerical tests, we cannot in good faith agree to the establishment of a definitive percentage of our employes who shall in the future be members of minority racial groups. However, we shall be glad at any time to cooperate with representatives of responsible minority group organizations and discuss specifically the progress being made and shall entertain such constructive suggestions as they may be able to offer to increase the number of such employments. As evidence of the progress the bank has made in this regard you will be pleased to know that a survey conducted this week in San Francisco revealed that 15% of our employes in this city are members of minority groups. A previous survey conducted one month ago revealed that on a statewide basis 11% of our employes are drawn from minority groups.

In sending this open letter to you we hope we have demonstrated:

> Our willingness to cooperate in providing opportunities for members of minority groups.
> Our dedication to the democratic processes and to law and order.
> That our policy refusal to sign agreements and provide reports to nongovernment agencies such as the Ad Hoc Committee to End Discrimination is not an attempt to hide our policies and practices in respect to employment.

In common with all good Americans we are anxious to do all we can to end the ugly specter of racial prejudice which has for too long scarred our land. But also, as good Americans, we will not now or in the future capitulate to illegal pressures of the type prominent in San Francisco over the past weeks; and we are confident that we can count on the full and effective support of law enforcement agencies in the maintenance of this position.

Sincerely,

R. Peterson

R. A. PETERSON
President

Peacock Gap Has New Project Engineer For Design, Planning

Peacock Gap has a new project engineer to handle architectural and land planning supervision and general engineering. He is William D. TurnBull of San Francisco who has recently been working on the architectural and structural design of private residences for Reid, Cahn and Richardson in Tiburon.

He will represent the Draper Companies on the architectural committee for Peacock Gap, along with vice presidents William A. Harding and A. G. Michaud, architect and land planner Lawrence Halprin, and architects Don Emmons and Neil Smith.

Trumbull is a native of Orange, N.J., who along with architecture has studied soil mechanics and foundations. He was engineering administrator four years with the Lummus Co. in France.

CIVIL AND STRUCTURAL engineers Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton were scheduled to move over the weekend from 912 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, where they have been since 1959, to the new Adams Building at Fourth and Mary Streets just completed by William H. McDevitt Co.

They had run out of space at the old address — now have twice as much as they had before.. They'll be on the second floor.

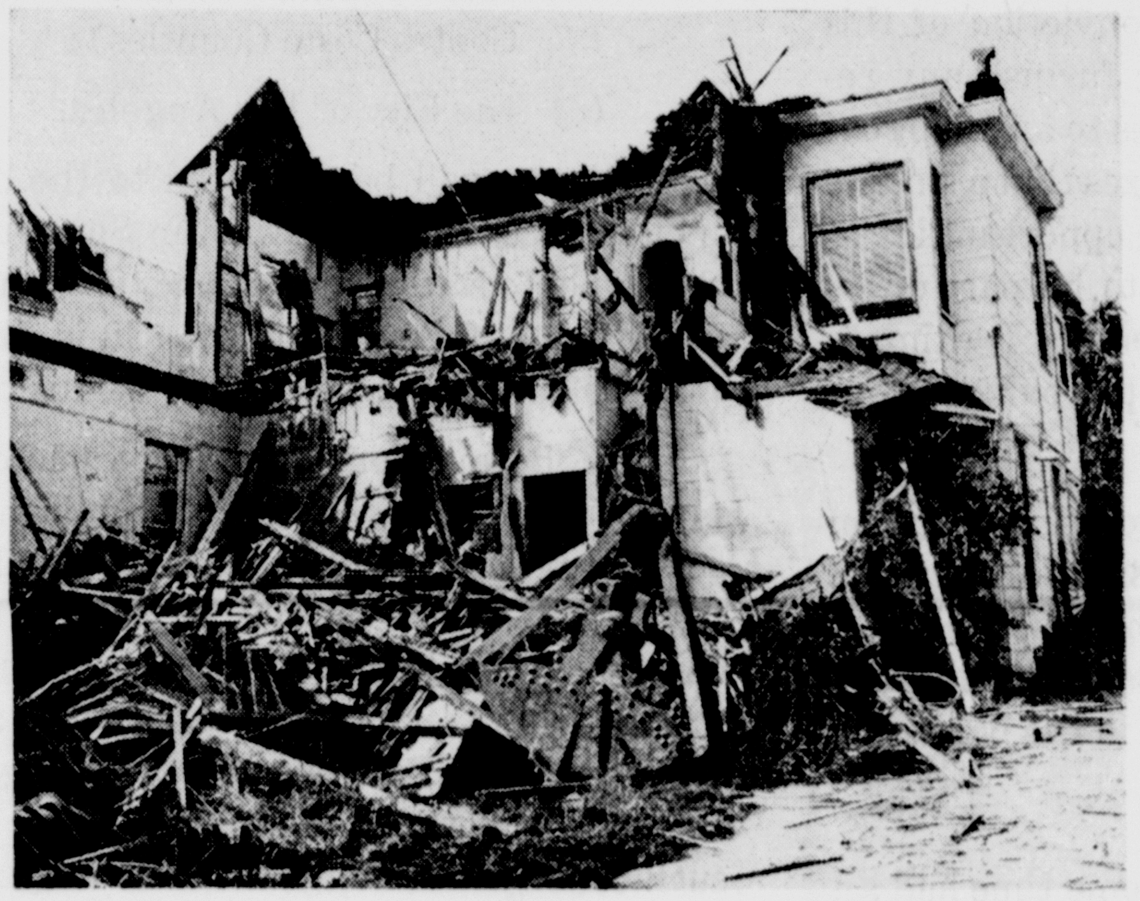
Du Pont Sales Hit New High 5th Year

WILMINGTON — Du Pont Co. sales in 1963 established a new high for the fifth consec- Copeland, president, said today in his annual report to the company's 234,000 stockholders. He described it as "a good year and one of intense activity and increasing competition."

Sales in dollars in 1963 increased 6 per cent over 1962. Physical volume of sales was 7 per cent greater while the company's index of selling prices averaged 1 per cent lower in 1962. Net earnings from operations, which also set a record, increased slightly over 1962.



OLD BUILDING MAKES WAY FOR PROGRESS

Ghilotti Brothers made short work of demolishing this old apartment building at 914 Mission Street, San Rafael, which had stood since the turn of the century. It will be replaced by a modern four-story structure with ground floor parking to be occupied by the Wachsman-Nixon Co. insurance firm and other businesses. The property, owned by Edward Wachsman of Loch Lomond, adjoins that of Pacific Coast Title Co. of Marin. (Independent-Journal photo)

Employees reimbursed expenses are reported on your California and federal return the same way.

P. J. Wikel

An employee who is not required to account to his employer (or even though required, does not account) must report on his return the total amounts of expenses for travel, transportation, entertainment and other purposes which he incurs under a reimbursement or other arrangement with his employer. Any allowance to the employee in excess of his expenses must be included in the employee's income.

An employee who is required to account to his employer for his expenses and does so account will not ordinarily be called upon to substantiate expense account information unless:

1. His expenses exceed the total of the amounts charged to his employer and he claims a deduction on his return for such excess; or,
2. He is related to his employer or is employed by a company in which he or his family owns more than 50 per cent of the stock; or
3. It is determined that the procedures used by the employer in accounting for these expenses are not adequate.

The rules for employee's expenses are ever more complicated and every employee's expense deduction is due for a more thorough going over than ever before. If you have expenses for travel, entertainment, etc., then you should keep accurate records to back up every item you deduct on your tax return.

The Internal Revenue Service provides Form 2106 for reporting these.

Sharp Loss For Rails In Irregular Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Rails took sharp losses as the stock market closed irregularly today.

Coppers and cigarette issues advanced.

Trading picked up in the final minutes at the end of a moderately active session.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.3 million shares compared with 5.67 million Friday.

Gains and losses of fractions to a point or more prevailed among most key stocks.

Threats of a rail strike depressed rails. New York Central fell about 2, Pennsylvania Railroad more than a point. Chicago and North Western fell about 2 while the road's preferred stock lost nearly 3. Down fractionally were Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio and Illinois Central.

Cigarette issues rallied on a weekend report that cigarette sales were recovering following their fall on news of the government health report. Philip Morris rose more than a point, American Tobacco nearly a point. Fractional gainers included Liggett and Myers, Lorillard and Reynolds.

Coppers, strong earlier on news of further price increases for the metal, backed away from their best gains. Phelps Dodge held a one-point gain. Fractionally higher were Anaconda, Cerro Corp., Rhodesian Selection Trust and International Nickel. Kennecott and American Smelting eased.

Weakness spread to the auto stocks, Chrysler falling more than a point and General Motors nearly a point.

IBM shucked off more than 5. Polaroid held a gain exceeding a point.

Great A&P looked like the volume leader, down nearly a point. Chris Craft, up a point, was next in volume.

Gains of a point or so were made by American Broadcasting-Paramount, G. D. Searle, Catapillar and Allied Chemical. CTS Corp. fell about 2.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were irregularly lower. U. S. government bonds were mostly unchanged in light dealings over the counter.

Fourth District Aspirants Give Views In Bolinas

Ludy, Dougan, Keilty, Stone, Marshall, Storer All Appear

By ALAN CUNNINGHAM

Some 50 residents of Bolinas turned out Saturday night to listen, have a cup of coffee, ask questions and generally size up the six candidates for county supervisor from the Fourth District.

The session, at Bolinas Community Center, was moderated by David Edwards, who permitted each candidate to deliver a five-minute speech before throwing it open to questions from the audience.

Incumbent George H. Ludy, speaking without notes, predicted his re-election.

"I think my record speaks for itself, and believe that the vote will prove my point," he said.

Discussing major problems which face the county, he placed heavy emphasis on the need to improve roads, which he said have been "losing ground for 20 years."

Stressing that a large share of road funds is eaten up by land costs, Ludy told the group: "I am going to say something now which you may not like, but in order to have adequate roads, the only solution is going to be a bond issue.

"I hate bond issues, too, but I am afraid it is the only answer. The federal government won't come in and give us any aid."

Bolinas insurance man James Dougan set forth a list of qualities he felt would be needed for a member of the board of supervisors. Number one on his list, Dougan indicated, was his feeling that a supervisor should be a good businessman, "because the county is big business."

Other points included integrity, foresight, familiarity with the county's problems, and the ability to work with the other board members.

Dougan promised his audience he would maintain an "open door policy" if elected, maintaining publicly advertised hours in each community of the district so citizens could come to him with complaints or comments.

"I intend to make Marin my home for life, and will not compromise with its future," Dougan said.

John T. Keilty, Woodacre building contractor, framed his remarks around two main points. First of these was the need for planning to avoid problems surrounding development of the Point Reyes National Seashore. The other was the need to "use the land in the area to full advantage."

When the seashore is developed, Keilty predicted, West Marin citizens will be subjected to possible woes of beer cans, garbage and heavy traffic.

Stating "we must take the long view, yet at the same time, we cannot ignore the present," Keilty urged that the county act to preserve the area's "original characteristics and beauty."

Rapid transit, roads and the "long overdue" Veterans Memorial Building were the main points touched by Tomales rancher James H. Marshall, former supervisor who lost the office to Ludy in the 1960 election.

He suggested that commute trains which have been rejected for the Golden Gate Bridge, be run to Marin via the proposed Tiburon span.

As for roads, Marshall agreed with Ludy that the county would have to have a bond issue. "We can't get roads through taxes," he declared.

He further urged repairs for Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, and said he would like to see Highway One receive a higher priority for improvement projects.

An emphasis on the human element was given politics by Forest Knolls architect Leslie S. Stone.

Stating that he would, if elected, base his decisions on "human lives, human problems and human feelings," Stone said, "we must never forget that our most precious commodity is human lives."

Stone indicated he was concerned with maintaining the natural beauty of the area, but also sought solutions to the problems of the "penalized property owner," who he noted pays more for having improved his home and land.

Bringing in industry is "not a simple problem," Stone said. He pledged to find other means of raising revenue for the county.

He ended with the comment, "planning is important, but we must never forget that people's needs change."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas T. Storer of Inverness told the group he regarded redistricting as "the number one issue in this county." But he also had some remarks concerning the Point Reyes seashore.

"How are we going to live with it?" he asked. Then he suggested that "we should keep it closed until we are ready" for the influx of people which its full development would bring.

Storer said improvement of roads and solutions to related problems should be brought about before the seashore is opened to the public.

As for taxes, Storer suggested that a possible alternative is raising property taxes might be to provide a "little income tax." But he quickly added, "I'm not for that." Still, he promised, "I'll find some other way besides raising the property tax."

In closing, Storer told the group that "millions of people have fought and died to preserve your right to vote." He urged that all his listeners exercise this right.

During the question and answer session, the group queried the six men on such things as the actual duties of a county supervisor, and what they think will happen to West Marin between now and the turn of the century.

They made it plain that one of their greatest concerns is over how long it will take to improve the winding, narrow roads which connect the area with the rest of the county.

A particularly irate questioner was Parker Edwards of Bolinas, who contended he had heard "promises, promises," but wondered when such things as a wide, straight highway to the new seashore would become a reality.

Ludy said development of "Shoreline Highway is 20 years off."

The request for a look into the future came from Hugh Dougherty of Stinson Beach, and brought cautious answers.

Dougan indicated he expected the area still to be "basically residential," but predicted "more recreational facilities, with bigger and better schools."

Storer repeated an earlier statement that "the people are going to come; we cannot stop them if they want to move to this area."

"It will be up to the people," Marshall said. Ludy, commenting that "I don't have a crystal ball," predicted, "I don't think there will be any drastic change."

Tree Spraying Set In Two Areas

Residents of San Rafael's Sun Valley and Bret Harte areas had best not park their cars at the curb tonight, unless they want a spray job.

The San Rafael Public Works Department will spray street trees in the two areas, beginning about 6 a.m., Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles announced today.

Planner Pay Hikes Urged By Elliott

Hikes of 10 and 15 per cent in the pay scales of planners in the Marin County Planning Department have been recommended by county personnel director Robert D. Elliott.

Elliott, in a special study of the department, asked increases for every position except junior planner. He said principal planners' salaries, which now range from $726 to $912 a month, should go up three steps, to $832 to $1,050 a month.

In the case of the four planners recently hired by the department, the changes would have no effect on their salaries, because each was hired at the third step in his range. Five and 10 per cent increases would be given to other planners.

Elliott said the salary of Planning Director B. D. Dobbs should be raised, but that the range differential between this top post and that of principal planner should be only four steps.

Dobbs would gain $100 a month over the $1,050 he now receives.

The planning director, in a separate report, disagreed with Elliott regarding his own salary, saying it should be at least five steps, or more than 25 per cent, above the next lower job in range if not in actual pay. He said the differential would allow for insertion of assistant planning director and zoning administrator without "squeezing" classifications.

The effect of the proposed increases at this time, Dobbs estimated, would be to add $337 a month. Dobbs has argued that the salary structure has made it difficult both to recruit and keep good planners.

Three of five family heads today have not completed high school, the Population Reference Bureau reports.

6 More Americans Die In Vietnam War

SAIGON, Vietnam (AP) — Six more American airmen were killed in South Vietnam during the weekend as Red guerrillas shot down a U. S. helicopter and a spotter plane.

Four of the airmen were aboard the helicopter, which was hit by ground fire yesterday 100 miles south of Saigon.

The other airmen were aboard an L19 spotter plane that was knocked down Saturday northeast of Saigon.

The six deaths brought to 124 the number of Americans killed in action in the Vietnam war since the U. S. buildup in Vietnam began in December, 1961.

The Defense Department said the dead airmen were:

Aboard the spotter plane: Capt. Thomas J. Bergin, Schenectady, N. Y., and 1st Lt. Richard Jaeck, Milwaukee, Wis.

New Discovery Now Makes It Possible To Shrink And Heal Hemorrhoids Without Surgery

Stops Itch—Relieves Pain In Minutes

New York, N. Y. (Special): A world-famous institute has discovered a new substance which has the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids without surgery. The sufferer first notices almost unbelievable relief in minutes from itching, burning and pain. Then this substance speeds up healing of the injured tissues all while it quickly reduces painful swelling.

Tests conducted under a doctor's observations proved this so — even in cases of 10 to 20 years' standing. The secret is the new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — now offered in both ointment or suppository form called Preparation H®.

In addition to actually shrinking piles — Preparation H lubricates and makes bowel movements less painful. It helps to prevent infection (a principal cause of hemorrhoids).

Only Preparation H contains this magic new substance which quickly helps heal injured cells back to normal and stimulates regrowth of healthy tissue again. Just ask for Preparation H Ointment or Preparation H Suppositories (easier to use away from home). Available at all drug counters.

This is a secret sketch of the only captive Ado in the world. Big fella, too. And cute. He's all excited today. About something, actually. He's found a way to save money. Thing is, being the only captive Ado, he's much in demand. On television, doing radio commercials, and so on. So he's got a big income. And many bills to pay. Our man at the Zoo informed Ado's manager, Max, that our captive friend could save dollars a month at Redwood National Bank. By not paying service charges for his checking account, which maintains over a $200 balance. Well, you can imagine how Ado felt. It's little things like that that make him happy. He does need the money. After all, there's so much Ado.

Paul Hornung, Alex Karras Reinstated By NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League today reinstated Paul Hornung and Alex Harras, professional football stars suspended indefinitely last April 17 for gambling activities. The reinstatement goes into effect immediately.

Hornung, a member of the Green Bay Packers and three-time scoring champion of the National Football League, and Karras, an outstanding defensive tackle with the Detroit Lions, were set down for betting on football games.

At the same time, five other Detroit players were fined the maximum of $2,000 each for betting on one game and the Detroit club was fined $4,000 for laxness in reporting information to the commissioner and in supervising its bench at games.

Betting on games is flatly forbidden by a provision in NFL palyer contracts. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said there was no evidence that the players had bet against their own teams or that they ever had attempted to influence the results of games.

Both Hornung and Karras admitted they had made substantial bets of $50 or more over a period of several seasons. The other five — Joe Schmidt, Wayne Walker, John Gordy, Gary Lowe and Sam Williams — bet $50 each and Karras $100 on the Green Bay Packers to beat the New York Giants in the 1962 NFL championship game.

The players were in Miami for the Playoff Bowl game and were watching the championship game on television. The bets were placed through a Florida friend of Karras — not a bookmaker. The others said it was done on impulse and that they never had bet on games at any other time.

Hornung began betting in 1959 through a West Coast businessman but quit after the 1961 season. His bets on the Packers to win sometimes were as high as $500, though more ofter they were $50 to $100.

The Lions were fined because Coach George Wilson failed to pass on information given by Detroit police about the associates of some Lion players and because sideline passes were issued to unauthorized persons.

Police reported that Detroit players had been seen with men who were under surveillance as known hoodlums. Wilson saw some inaccuracies in these reports and minimized their importance.

In announcing the end of the indefinite suspensions, Rozelle said there was no evidence that either Karras or Hornung ever bet against his own team or failed to do his best in any NFL game.

Rozelle said he had established to his own satisfaction that each player now has a clear understanding of the seriousness of the offenses and of the circumstances that brought the mabout.

Rozelle's prepared statement said: "Taking into prime consideration the extent of their violations and also their conduct during the period of suspension, it is felt that the best interests of the league will be best served by termination of the suspensions."

Negro Manager In Big Leagues? Mays Mentioned As Possibility

CONNOLLY

PHOENIX—It is sure to come and it may be just around the corner. But as yet no owner is ready to predict how long it is going to take.

I'm referring to the possibility of a Negro being installed as a major league manager.

Willie Mays, regarded by a majority of baseball observers as the most likely managerial type, positively refuses to make a guess.

"I'm not the managing type," Willie said today when we collared him between swings at Phoenix.

"Ah think it is nice to mention me as a possible pilot, but it's not for me. I have too many years left as a regular player. Of course, if Mr. Stoneham was in a jam and asked me to take over, I'd take a whack at it," explains Mays, "but, truthfully, I'm not even speculating on such a thing taking place."

My next stop was to buttonhole Horace Stoneham, boss owner of the Giants.

"DO YOU think the majors will soon have a Negro manager?" I asked.

"It won't be long," Stoneham answered eagerly and as if he really knew something.

"I wouldn't be surprised at all. In fact, I rather expect it," Stoneham remarked. "But to say how soon would be silly for me to guess.

"But seriously," Stoneham said, "we have a number of keen Negro players who could assume managerial duties and do a fine job of it.

"IT'LL BE no surprise to me when it happens. In fact I rather look forward to it with a great deal of excitement."

The older scouts like Tom Sheehan, Hank Sauer and Hollis Thurston figure the best Negro players in both the American and National leagues are still in their prime years as players and think it would be a shame to saddle them with the task of managing and playing.

Carl Hubbell, director of the Giants farm system, however, likes the idea. It might put a little more ambition in some of the colored players, if they thought they had a chance some day to manage a big league club," Hubbell explains. "Right now I'd like to see them give managing a whirl in the high minors before they stepped into bossing a big league aggregation."

IN MENTIONING the name of Mays as a possibility of a big league manager's job, brings to mind the cloistered life he now leads as a player with the Giants. No player keeps more to himself than the Say Hey Kid.

"How come, Willie, I never see you in the hotel lobby?" I asked.

"I tried it a couple times," replied Willie, "but they mobbed me for autographs, so I just go up to my room and read and watch TV and radio. It's easier that way to not get a traffic ticket for blocking hallways and lobbies."

Fine Season Opener For Olympic Sailors

By ALFRED MATSON

The Olympic Class Sailing Assn. certainly launched its 1964 season under the most auspicious circumstances over the weekend. There was a representative turnout of the five Olympic classes and the weather couldn't have been more propitious, although the winds for Saturday's race were less than forceful.

The national champion, Jim De Witt, Richmond Yacht Club, was easily victorious in the Flying Dutchman class, taking a first and second on Saturday and a double win yesterday.

Fred Miller came all the way up from Newport Beach to engage the local stalwarts of the Finn class. And his long trek was not in vain as he emerged the winner with a 5-2-1-2 final standing.

The results:

FINN CLASS

1. Fred Miller (South Shore YC, Newport Beach), Luftmeister, 3,557 points; 2. Bill Whitaker, (Sausalito YC) Finnicula, 3,448; 3. Dave Wahle (Palo Alto YC) Comotion, 3,123.

Richmond Team Is Champ Of Champs

Harry Ellis High School of Richmond is the champion of the 18th annual Tournament of Champions basketball classic after nipping Sacred Heart of San Francisco 57-56 in the finals Saturday in the Harmon Gym, University of California campus.

Third place winner was Hayward, 49-42 victor over Fremont, while consolation winner was Salinas, 51-37 over Napa. San Rafael, Marin County's representative to the tourney, was eliminated after losing its first two games in the tourney.

Two Marin Anglers Catch Winning Fish

Two Marin County anglers were among the winners recently in the Schenley Sportsmen's Club striped bass contest.

George Brabo of San Rafael caught a 24-pound, 4-ounce beauty near Red Rock, and George Spark of Black Point caught a 17-pounder near the Black John Slough.

UCLA Hoopsters Warned

COMBINED AP & UPI

Note to the UCLA and Michigan basketball teams: Here in the middle of March, it might be wise to brush up on your Shakespeare. "Beware," warned the bard, "The Ides of March."

He might have added that what happened in December doesn't count.

Vic Bubas of Duke and Tex Winter of Kansas State have voiced the same opinion, in slightly less poetic terms, perhaps, but it's the same idea. More like:

"They'd just better watch a little bit out."

Michigan is matched with Duke and UCLA with Kansas State in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships and in each case the top-ranked team owns a regular season victory over its Friday night opponent.

Top-ranked UCLA edged Kansas State 78-75 at Kansas and No. 2 Michigan romped over Duke 83-67 in December matches.

"I made a coaching mistake in that one," Bubas insists.

"Both teams have come a long way since then," said Winter. "We're a lot better now than we were then."

He reflected a moment, then added:

"UCLA's press is a lot like Wichita's. We handled them pretty well."

His Big Eight champion Wildcats ripped into the Shockers' press defense for a 94-86 triumph and the Midwest regional championship at Wichita Saturday.

Unbeaten UCLA came from behind for its 28th straight victor, a 76-72 edge over San Francisco for the Western regional title at Corvallis, Ore. Michigan clipped Ohio Univ. 69-57 for the Mideast title at Minneapolis and third-ranked Duke blasted Connecticut 101-54 for the Eastern crown at Raleigh, N. C.

Early in the UCLA-USF contest the Dons held a 20-7 lead and at halftime it was 36-28. Then Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich went to work for coach John Wooden's charges and drew close, caught and passed the Dons.

Wooden was worried at the intermission and admitted he had to "build up their confidence."

Coach Pete Peletta, in his fourth year at USF, had led the club to 19 straight victories. Ironically, the Dons were the last team to defeat UCLA—in the consolation game of the Western NCAA tourney held in Provo, Utah last year.

"We went into the game with the idea that we were going to control the tempo," said Peletta. "Perhaps we played too cautious in the second half," he added, "and we looked a bit stagnant."

The loss was the first in eight NCAA playoff contests for USF. It also broke a 19-game victory string. USF ended the year with 23 victories and but five losses.

UCLA's Hazzard, named the most valuable player by sports writers and sportscasters, took tourney scoring honors with 49 points in the two games, one more than annexed by Ollie Johnson, USF crack junior. Johnson pulled down a total of 28 rebounds.

UCLA will meet Kansas, Big Eight champions in Kansas City Friday. The two teams met in December and the Bruins won by three points.

Cassius Offers Patterson A 'Winner-Take-All' Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he's willing to defend the honor of the Black Muslims in a winner-take-all fight with former title holder Floyd Patterson.

Clay, appearing on a Chicago television show yesterday, announced he would welcome a charity bout against Patterson, with the proceeds going to the Black Muslims if Clay wins and to the Roman Catholic Church if Patterson wins. Clay didn't say whether he intended to defend his title.

Promoter Tom Bolan of Championship Sports, who nine days ago supported Patterson's "no purse" title challenge with a $75,000 guarantee but was rebuffed by Clay's manager, said in New York he doubted the meeting proposed by Clay would take place.

"We're interested in such a fight, but I'm afraid we'll find that Clay isn't serious," Bolan said.

Clay, a follower of Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad, was in Chicago for a conference with Muhammad. Patterson, a Roman Catholic, had made the original offer to fight Clay "for no purse, just for the opportunity to take the title away from Clay and the Muslims."

'Wonderful News', Says Gleeful Paul Hornung

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Paul Hornung accepted gleefully today the news that he had been reinstated by the National Football League.

He plans to report to the Green Bay Packers in early May for a special training program to regain playing shape.

"That's wonderful news," declared Hornung, awakened at the Miami Beach Hotel where he has been vacationing. "I feel very good about it."

Hornung, three-time NFL scoring champion, and tackle Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions were reinstated today after an 11-month suspension for gambling activities.

"I want to thank the public, especially the people in Wisconsin and the members of the players association, for being so nice to me during the time I was out," Hornung said.

No Offensive Worries For The Giants

BOSOX BOMBED

Batsmen Continue Impressive Attack

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—If their spring batting averages bear any resemblance to what's to come in the regular season, the San Francisco Giants will have no offensive worries in 1964. They've been terrors in sweeping seven of their last eight games thus far.

Last year's National League third-placers sprayed 17 hits at the Boston Red Sox yesterday in a 7-4 Cactus League victory.

Jesus Alou and Jose Pagan—two hitting question marks—each rapped three safties and four other Giants—Chuck Hiller, Orlando Cepeda, Jim Hart and Tom Haller — had two apiece.

Alou is the rookie who's been handed the right field starting assignment by Manager Alvin Dark—assuming he can hit.

Hart, who's in the same situation at third base, raised his spring average to .333 as did Pagan. Shortstop Jose slumped badly at the plate last year.

Haller boosted his average to .350 but Willie Mays, who had one hit, "slumped" to .455.

Bob Shaw, acquired from Milwaukee for short relief and spot starting, pitched the first six innings yesterday and was impressive though he gave up all four Boston runs. It was his third victory of the spring.

He faced only 22 batters, yielded five hits and struck out two men while walking one.

Ken MacKenzie, a newcomer from the St. Louis Cardinals, blanked Boston for two innings and Bob Bolin survived the ninth thanks to a double play started by Hart.

Alou scored the most unique run of the loosely-played contest. He singled in the first, continued to second when center fielder Roman Mejias threw behind Alou and scored when first baseman Dick Start threw the ball back into left field.

EX-TAM STAR NAMED HEAD OSU COACH

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Paul Valenti, former Marin County resident and an assistant coach since 1947, was named today to succeed Amory T. (Slats) Gill as head basketball coach at Oregon State University.

The choice had been expected. Valenti was almost the only candidate mentioned by name for the post. He was a star cager at Tamalpais High School some 25 years ago.

Gill resigned to become athletic director after 36 seasons in which his basketball teams won 599 games and lost 392.

The eight-hit attack by Drake in the second game was led by Don Humphrey with three singles and Tom Hickerson with a triple. Winning pitcher in Drake's triumph was Chuck Locati who gave up one hit and one run.

Batters Ahead Of Pitchers In Big League Exhibitions

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is the time of year when the pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters.

Maybe so, but those weren't grapefruits rattling off the walls yesterday, as the major leagues wound up the first big weekend of exhibition action. They were baseballs, and by the time they stopped bouncing the big leaguers had scored a total of 129 runs in 11 games.

However, one fellow was ahead of the batters. That was Warren Spahn.

Spahnie allowed one hit in three innings, and Milwaukee went on to defeat the Washington Senators 2-0, in the only shutout of the day.

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates had the biggest day at bat as they feasted on the pitching of the Kansas City letics for the second straight Athletics for the second day. This time the score was 15-7, and the Pirates had seven home runs, including three by rookie infielder Gene Alley. The Pirates whipped the Athletics 14-1 Saturday.

The Baltimore Orioles also made it two in a row over the New York Yankees as they raked Stan Williams and his successors for nine runs in the second inning and won 10-1.

Minesota had a six-run seventh inning in a 9-6 victory over Detroit. Jimmie Hall hit a three-run homer and Bob Allison a bases-loaded double.

Cincinnati had 17 hits as the Reds battered the Chicago White Soxe 11-7. The Sox fought back in the late innings as Charlie Smith hit two homers and J. C. Martin got one.

DODGERS BEATEN

The Los Angeles Dodgers, touring in Mexico were beaten 8-5 by the Mexico City All-Stars, who jumped on Dick Calmus for four runs in the eighth. It was the first loss for the Dodgers after two victories in Mexico.

The Cleveland Indians got a split on the day. The varsity ended a four-game losing streak with a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs as rookie pitcher Gordon Seyfried drove in three runs and pitched four shutout innings.

The Los Angeles Angels rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to trim the Cleveland "B" team 8-7.

The San Francisco Giants, with Bob Shaw going six innings, scored a 7-4 decision over the Boston Red Sox. It gave the Giants a 7-1 spring record.

Rookie Richie Allen hit a three-run homer, his second in two days as the Philadelphia Phils trimmed the Houston Colts 6-2.

And the New York Mets committed six errors and lost their second game in two starts, 6-3 to the St. Louis Cardinals. All six runs were unearned, and hard-luck pitcher Craig Anderson was the victim.

Warriors Clinch Title Tie; Need One More Win Tonight

The San Francisco Warriors can make their claim to the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division championship official tonight by beating the Philadelphia 76ers at the Cow Palace, 8:15 o'clock.

The Warriors were idle last night, but they backed into a tie for the division title when the runnerup St. Louis Hawks dropped a 124-101 decision to the Cincinnati Royals.

That extended San Francisco's division lead to two games with two games left to play. The Warriors will capture their first Western Division crown by beating Philadelphia tonight or Wednesday night — or if St. Louis loses one of its two remaining games.

The Warriors showed championship form Saturday night in whipping the Los Angeles Lakers 111-95. Wilt Chamberlain provided half of the Warriors' offense with a 55-point performance.

The division championship means additional money to the Warriors and a breather before plunging into the NBA playoffs.

The division winner rests while the second and third place teams oppose each other in a best-of-five series. The winner of that series then plays the division champion in the divisional playoffs.

The division title will bring the Warriors $12,000 to split among 10 players and Coach Alex Hannum and the automatic bye to the second round of the playoffs means at least -10,000 more. And if the Warriors advice to the finals against the eastern division winner, they can pick up a minimum of $17,000 more.

Aussie Cops Big Win In St. Pete Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus gave Bruce Devlin the word, and the word won his the $3,300 first prize in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

The young Australian, who credited the even younger American with helping him with his iron shots, used them to perfection yesterday as he coasted through the final round with a two-under-par 70. It gave him a 72-hole total of 272, four strokes better than Dan Sikes.

Sikes made a good run for the top money, with a four-under-par 68 over a wind-blown Lakewood Country Club course.

Jacky Cupit also shot a 68, and finished five strokes behind Devlin. He didn't complain about the weather, but he said the wind — which gusted up to 35 miles per hour—made the course three strokes tougher.

Dow Finsterwald, who scored a rare double eagle on the 501-yard No. 2 hole with a booming four-wood shot, came in fifth with 279. His double eagle contributed to a final round 68.

College of Marin baseballers were thumped by the San Quentin inmates 16-8 Saturday within the gates of San Quentin Prison.

Tar starter Skip Rush, who went the first three innings before needing help, got the loss. He was followed to the mound by Ron Grayson and Park Smith. San Quentin had two big innings, scoring six runs in the third frame and seven in the fifth.

Marin's biggest inning was the third when the Tars scored five runs. Accounting for the runus in that inning were doubles by Fred Mack and Al Finley, singles by John Odetto, Rocky Jordan and John Walker and a sacrifice fly by Rush.

Only other hit for Marin was a ninth inning single by Ed Tyra, Coach Ed Grimm of COM praised the relief pitching of Smith who allowed only two runs after coming in during the fifth inning.

Professor Teagen Was a Cube

Quite often, of late, I permit myself the luxury of mental journeys into misty isles of the past. For a guy pushing 44, these backward trips offer more allure than the rather frightening excursions into the netherlands of creaky joints and bent shoulders. I am careful not to travel too far back, however. I am told on very reliable authority I was a most unattractive baby, and as a pre-teenager, well, my stomach gets queasy, easy. Alliteration, yet.

But if I cautiously restrict my ruminations to selected periods of not-too-post-adolescence, more specifically late high school and early college days, I find the trip pleasant and a bit nostalgic, and a grateful respite from the daily see-saw ride of hero to bum. A more delicately balanced see-saw I never did see. It was so exhilarating riding high as hero yesterday. What on earth happened to trip the balance to bum today?

I remember somber Professor Teagen at Highland Park (Michigan - - there's one in almost every state, you know) Junior College. He was taken to celluloid collars - - or, at least, highly starched ones. This must have had a bearing on his rather stiff-necked approach to the subject of economics, I'm sure. He'd get a firm grip on his massive lapel, strike a particularly baleful pose, clear his throat with rumbling deliberation-and speak the Wisdom of Truth.

Laissez faire. Caveat emptor. Supply and Demand. Recession. Prosperity. Depression. Free Enterprise. He used 'em all, to explain the Laws of Economics. To hear him tell it, there was no appeal from these laws. They were inviolate. Cause always preceded effect, and the bulls and bears never missed their cues. I was thoroughly convinced. Got straight "A's" in his course, too, which further proved how good a parrot I was.

And so, I went into the world, confident that success for me depended only on how fervently I obeyed each and every law of economics. For a decade or more, I don't believe I broke one of these laws. And these were hungry years, indeed. I looked around to try to find out where the parade went. It was quite a shock to discover so many bending and breaking these sacred economic laws with carefree abandon. And none of them looked the least bit hungry.

It didn't take me too long to get the message. After all, those "A's" were not entirely accidental. The guys who were breaking or ignoring these laws had something far more formidable going for them. They had confidence, optimism, and an unshakable faith in the future. They made their success, and doing instead of doubting. Recession or depression is only a state of mind. Think and talk recession, and it will come. Ignore it and operate, instead, and it will surely die of neglect.

As for another bubble—that of inflation—it hasn't shown up at Ames Ford. Prices on our Fords haven't changed hardly a bit for several years. And besides, even if the price of a particular model increased a smidgeon, if anyone offered to pay the full retail price as indicated on the official price label, I'm afraid Doug Cowan and I couldn't stand the shock. We'd faint dead away.

Irish Bob Scanlon Tries Gaelic Luck

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Paul Armstead, world's No. 3 lightweight, goes against Gaelic luck and Irish Bobby Scanlon tonight — St. Patrick's Day eve — in a scheduled 10-rounder at Kezar Pavilion in San Francisco. First preliminary starts at 8:30.

Scanlon, once again fighting out of San Francisco, is making another effort to get back in the lightweight ratings. This is his first fight in San Francisco in more than five years.

Armstead, a 27-year-old clever boxer from Los Angeles, has only a narrow defeat marring his record in the past three years. That was a 15-round decision to top-ranked Kenny Lane last year in what was billed by the state of Michigan as a world championship fight.

Scanlon, 40-9-1 over-all with 11 knockouts, lost four of six in 1963, including a 10-round split decision loss to Armstead, who is 39-11-1 with 13 knockouts.

After fighting as a junior welterweight Scanlon has trained down to around 138 pounds and is near the lightweight class again. Eye trouble, sporadic training and occasional sub-par fighting have given a mottled appearance to the career of Scanlon, who originally fought out of Buffalo, N.M. For a time he fought out of Marin County when he resided in Fairfax.

Armstead is California lightweight champion, although this title is not at stake tonight. Armstead has failed to go the distance twice and Scanlon was knocked out once.

Can Seals Hang On To 4th Place?

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Seals try to keep alive their chances for a playoff berth as they close out their regular Western Hockey League season this week with two tilts against the Los Angeles Blades.

The Seals remained three points ahead of fifth-place Seattle Saturday after their 4-3 victory over last-place Vancouver. But Seattle has four games remaining in which to top the Seals in the standings.

San Francisco was in control all the way Saturday leading 3-0 in the first period and 4-1 after the second.

The Seals have lost ten, won three and tied one of the previous matches with Los Angeles this year. The two teams meet in the Cow Palace Wednesday and then in Los Angeles Saturday.

AT MAKE-UP MAN'S MERCY — Make-up man applies a cosmetic sponge to face of Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), yesterday shortly before the senator made his appearance on a television show in San Francisco. Barry Pushes Campaign As State GOP Unit Backs Him

FRESNO (UPI) — Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater today had the endorsement of the 14,000-member California Republican Assembly in his drive for the GOP presidential nomination.

He won it in a sharply contested, sometimes bitter fight yesterday against forces favoring New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at the CRA's 30th annual convention.

The endorsement, though relatively meaningless financially, helps furnish volunteer workers for Goldwater's clash with Rockefeller in California's crucial June 2 primary election.

Representing a major victory in the nation's most populous state, the vote of confidence came less than a week after Goldwater's second place finish behind Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in tiny New Hampshire's primary last Tuesday.

Goldwater and Rockefeller both have officially entered the California primary and appeared in person at the convention.

Rockefeller returned to New York Saturday, but Goldwater remained in California for another week of campaigning.

Former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen also has announced plans to enter the primary, but hasn't taken the needed official steps. He said he planned to make his candidacy official early this week.

Goldwater, in San Francisco for a television appearance, authorized a statement that the endorsement, coming after hours of bitter wrangling among the more than 500 delegates "pleased and delighted" him.

1,500 Novato Houses Hit By Blackout

Electric power was interrupted for about 1,500 Pacific Gas and Electric Co. customers in southern Novato for 47 minutes Saturday night, according to PG&E electric supt. Leonard O. Robertson.

Another 300 customers in the Black Point area lost service for nearly an hour and a half.

Robertson said the failure, which lasted in Novato from 11:18 p.m. Saturday to 12:05 a.m. Sunday, occurred when a wire broke at the Leslie Salt Co. plant on Sears Point Road just west of Vallejo. He said the company does not know why the wire broke.

Among users involved was Novato General Hospital, which switched to auxiliary power for its emergency facilities.

Service to Black Point was not restored until 12:46 a.m., Robertson said.

SOME TURNED AWAY

Candlelight Concert Stars Carol Bogard

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Again the uninhibited acclaim of a typical Candlelight Concert audience brought a superlative performance last night from the Bach to Mozart Chamber Players.

As for other Candlelight Concerts, Brown's Hall in Mill Valley was packed, and some had to be regretfully turned away.

Though the whole ensemble was due full credit for a beautifully integrated performance, Carol Bogard was as usual the star of the evening — testing every facet of her coloratura skill was the closing number, A Motet of Fresh Appeal by Handel.

From the standpoint of sheer beauty of tone, it would be difficult to surpass her vocal quality combined with that of Raymond Duste's oboe — or with Edward Haug's trumpet in the other Handel piece, the aria "Destero D'empia Dite."

Roy Bogas's opening solo on the harpsichord of Mozart's delicate "Rondo in D Major" set a perfect mood for the concert. Primarily a pianist, Bogas is nevertheless a master of the harpsichord. The piece showed to advantage his exceptionally fluent ryhthm and assured touch.

Baritone Edgar Jones, another gifted performer in the Baroque style, was most pleasing in the Bach aria "Es Ist Vollbracht" from Canatata 159 and the Purcell song "Man Is For a Woman Made."

Completing the program was the original version of Mozart's "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" with string quartet and bass. This was notable for the violin artistry of Nathan Rubin and the opportunity to hear the string bass, played by Carl Modell, in more than an ostinato.

The other excellent string players were cellist Ellen Dressler, violist Elizabeth Bell and violinist Ruggiero Pelosi.

Those unable to hear this concert may be glad to know that the Bach to Mozart players will appear Thursday night in the College of Marin concert artist series and in an extra Candlelight Concert on April 19 at Brown's Hall.

Wife Learning To Drive From Mate Hurt In Crash

A San Rafael husband's efforts to teach his wife to drive had a sorry ending Saturday.

Mrs. Ann Ross Keller, 29, of 33 Harte Avenue, San Rafael, suffered minor injuries, and the family car incurred major damage, when she failed to make a turn from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard onto Nicosia Road and the car turned over.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. Keller explained she was just learning to drive, and had not turned the steering wheel far enough when her husband, Harold E. Keller, instructed her to turn.

Although Keller attempted to grab the wheel and correct his wife's error, the 1961 Corvair sedan went out of control.

Mrs. Keller was treated by her own physician.

75 Decorously Attend Belvedere Teen Dance

There was no swooning, shrieking or "swimming" at the teen-age dance Friday the 13th at the Belvedere Community Hall. However, 75 teenagers from the Tiburon Peninsula said the dance was "pretty good" and asked, "When are we going to have another?"

A young group of musicians, the Casuals, organized the dance with assistance of the Belvedere Recreation Commission. The Casuals, high school seniors, are Bruce Walford, John Prosser, Larry Garitey and Keith Taylor from Corte Madera. They formed their combo when they were in the eighth grade at Larkspur-Corte Madera School.

The Belvedere city fathers had set strict regulations. There were no decorations, no turning lights down low, no in and out privileges, no smoking. Three couples chaperoned.

We like doing business with Murray Black

And he likes Standard's policy of supporting local business

If you had an oil well out in the ocean, as Standard often does, you'd find Murray Black a useful man. He helps to build, and also services, underwater oil wells and pipelines.

Murray is not a Standard employee...he's an independent contractor, with five other deep-sea divers on his payroll, and thousands of dollars of his own money tied up in equipment.

He started specifically to serve Standard's offshore drilling operations near Santa Barbara, and, from this small, local beginning, has become one of the busiest submarine contractors on the West Coast.

While his services are unique, he is only one of some 18,000 individual suppliers from whom Standard buys goods and services every year. Many are small, independent operators such as Murray Black.

Standard's purpose is to spread its purchasing as widely as possible, so that its dollars help to build many local businesses and communities.

Our annual shopping list is more than 50,000 items long. As our dollars flow into your community through local purchases, they help its whole economy. And the benefit, sooner or later, reaches out to you.

Planning ahead to serve you better

TODAY'S EDUCATORS believe in the creative growth of the child's imagination. Modern teaching methods incorporate attractive books, audio-visual aids, field trips, and creative play activities. Story-telling time lets the youngsters set up problems, solve them, in their own ways.

Were Those The Good Old Days?

In Colonial and Pioneer schools, pupils made their own copy-books and wrote with quill pens and homemade inks (which often froze in winter). In the South, children of wealthy planters were often taught by indentured servants. In fact, George Washington's first teacher was a bondsman whose other duties included sweeping out the church and digging graves whenever necessary.

Much of the teacher's time was occupied with the making and mending of pens and supervising lessons in penmanship. Except for arithmetic and handwriting, all subjects were taught through oral recitations —partly because of the high cost of paper. Lessons were learned not by discussion, but by questions and answers — which were often phrased in the exact words of the book!

THERE WERE no blackboards and no maps. Slates did not come into use until 1820— and lead pencils until later still. We've come a long way in education since those "good old days!"

Originally our school system was imported from England in 1607, but it languished, unattended, until after the Revolution. By 1800, 17 colleges had been established, but they remained small and conservative, and few could afford to attend them. After the "Dame Schools" for the youngest children, there were only a few Latin schools, where the ancient classics were studied along old European lines. The real hope for American education lay in the private Academies. Practical schools for the middle class, these academies flourished in the early 18th and middle 19th centuries, and became our prep schools of today.

Gradually, despite the first outraged cries of "Socialism," the public school system began to take form, and it was well established in this country by the time of the Civil War. In the late 1800's, men like Edward Shelton with his "object teaching," and Horace Mann with his goal of practical courses, were making revolutionary strides in curriculum development and teaching techniques. The scope of elementary education broadened, schools were graded, kindergarten and high schools were added. New courses, such as nature study and drawing, were introduced, and compulsory attendance laws were passed. Schools for teachers began to sprout up. And, after 1890, John Dewey, the "Father of Modern Education," developed his theories of Progressive Education.

TODAY, THERE are 25 million elementary school children in the United States . . . 11 million more in high school. Over 3 million students attend colleges and universities, and the United States has become a world leader in the field of education!

In retrospect, the era of the One Room School House was our most picturesque period Schools were clapboard buildings, rarely painted, and lighted by only five or six small windows. The teacher's desk stood, like a podium, on a raised platform against one wall of the room. Along the other three walls were sloping shelves and benches for older pupils. In the middle of the room were lower benches for the younger ones.

In extremely cold weather there had to be a constant fire, and one boy sat on a stool near the fireplace with a bucket of water and a huge squirt gun — his sole purpose to douse stray sparks that could set the school ablaze!

ONE TEACHER taught all grades, and the greatest handicap to effective teaching was the fact that no two pupils ever had the same version of the textbook! McGuffy's Primer was the reading text. During recitations, pupils were made to "toe the mark" — or stand in a straight line, aligned with

IN THE OLD DAYS students had to "toe the mark" when they read their lessons out loud. This meant standing with their feet lined up to the cracks in the floor. In winter one boy had the daily task of sitting by the fire with a "squirt gun"—ready to douse any flames that might set the school ablaze!

Miss Routley Weds Ned George Scott

Karen Elizabeth Routley of Mill Valley and Ned George Scott of San Francisco exchanged nuptial vows Sunday afternoon in a 3 o'clock ceremony at Stewart Memorial Presbyterian Church in San Francisco.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Routley of Mill Valley, was given in marriage by her father in double ring rites performed by the Rev. Augustus J. Cox. For her wedding she chose a short white lace dress with fitted bodice and full skirt.

Her maid of honor, Dorothy June Petros of Mill Valley, wore a short blue nylon dress, and the bridesmaids, her sister, Susan Routley of Mill Valley and Peggy Scott, sister of the bridegroom, wore yellow.

His brother, Cpl. Dale N. Scott of Camp Pendleton, served the bridegroom as best man. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Scott of San Francisco.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the church, and the young couple left afterward for a motor tour of Nevada. They will live in Greenbrae.

Straight Hair Cycle Ending— Curls Are In

By GAY PAULEY

The cycle of straight hair is ending and in come the curls, predicts one man whose job is to keep tabs on feminine hair styles.

Arthur Caplin foresees curls coming back for three reasons. The women are ready for them. The clothes call for them. And the men like the feminine allure of them.

Caplin, marketing director for a hair products firm, indicated that women were weary of the straight hair cycle which has been in for the last three to five years. The cycle produced the puffy beehives and bouffants, then calmed down to a less exaggerated but still straight look.

"Curliness is so essentially feminine, softening and becoming," he said in an interview. "Clothes are in a soft mood, so hair tends to follow." (UPI)

Oldest Scholar Wants To Write

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — Flora Cowgill, 91, is the oldest student at the University of Kansas.

Mrs. Cowgill, of Terre Haute, Ind., is taking a feature writing course by correspondence.

She hopes to use the skill she acquires to write a book about early-day experiences in Kansas, the university said.

Mrs. Cowgill, then Flora Kennedy of Lawrence, first enrolled at the university in 1889. Her father, believing that the proper education for a young lady was at a church school, withdrew her and sent her to De Paul University at Greencastle, Ind., where she met her husband, S. M. Cowgill.

A Neurotic Pet May Mirror Owner

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—If a pet is plagued with personality problems it might be a good idea to have the owner analyzed.

THAT IS the opinion of Miami, Fla., veterinarian Dr. Jack Knowles. Knowles, whose animal hospital has 10,000 furry clients reported at a meeting of the Oklahoma Veterinary Medical Assn. that animals often mirror the psychological difficulties of their owners.

Take loneliness.

"IN OUR SECTION of the country," Dr. Knowles said, "are many retirees. Often the husband dies and the wife, away from her native area and no longer needed by her family, feels cut off—lonely."

Enter a pet, usually a dog, to receive all the attention and affection of the lonely woman.

"IN TIME the dog will have to be hand fed, a little piece at a time, a chore that takes up two or three hours a day," Dr. Knowles said.

But, Dr. Knowles said it often goes beyond a lonely widow over-pampering her poodle. The family pet may reflect the psychological needs of the owning family or individual.

"POOR PEOPLE often have mean dogs," he said. "Feeling unprotected themselves, the people train them to be mean."

"Animals serve a real purpose," Dr. Knowles pointed out.

Future Is Unlimited One In 'Good New Days' Of School

the cracks on the floor. Punishment was severe, since it was considered the way to make youngsters learn.

Psychologists today know otherwise. Pioneering educators use tests to study the learning process and teaching techniques — continue research on curriculum. There are even rating scales or score cards to judge school buildings. For colorful though the one room schoolhouse may seem when looking backwards, its hardships did not allow a good learning situation.

Comfortable design and good facilities in classrooms, libraries and laboratories are considered of prime importance today. Good lighting and controlled heating are part of the environment. And experiments have been conducted as to which colors cause emotional reactions. For instance, light blues and greens are cool and have "intellectual" connotations, while white is hard on the eyes, "nervous" seeming, and beige proves to be unstimulating.

CARPETING HAS been added to a number of school plants, first, for the comfort it allows in informal teaching sessions, such as story-time, and, second, for the good accoustics it achieves by cutting down distracting sound.

As a whole, today's teaching systems try to enlist the pupil's interest with the use of activities, problems and projects, and — in the case of advanced or particularly gifted students — original investigation. Many teachers feel that the way in which a process first developed in practical life may be the guide to teaching it intelligently to beginners. Thus the use of small objects to illustrate combinations of numbers, and the teaching of language through speaking and writing rather than through grammar. Johnny no longer spells according to syllables. Instead, he learns to recognize phrases and words and sentences without spelling, exactly as he would have learned in the first place, without knowing the names of the letters.

Modern teaching methods incorporate well-laid-out books, audio-visual aides, field trips and creative play activities. Belief in the creative growth of the individual was the whole reason behind John Dewey's theories. For Dewey, the teacher is a quiet leader, allowing the children's imagination to take hold. And since school is the one society a child is most familiar with — adjustment to it is adjustment to life.

SOME EDUCATORS prefer stricter discipline. Others advocate vocational training that enables the young person to enter a profession. But the differing theories are all for one purpose: to prepare the student's mind to acquire knowledge, and to impart it to others. The advent of the Junior High School is helping to bridge the age-gap usually felt by the almost-teen. It offers exploratory courses, guidance services and individual instruction when possible. And unit teaching — by a section that has some unity of logical purpose — gives students the habit of wider vision.

None of these developments has happened over night. Chicago didn't build its first high school until 1856. Fully equipped school laboratories weren't known until 1874. In 1901 there were still 21 one-room schoolhouses in the state of New York. As for teacher training — as late as 1880, one slim volume claimed to tell the teacher all he or she had to know!

BUT WHEN you watch a third grader follow the phases of the astronaut's capsule — or read his lesson in basic French — then you know it's been worth the struggle . . . and you can bet the future is an unlimited one in these "good new days" of school!

Steamy Doings On Home Front

KANKAKEE, Ill. (UPI) — The United States is continually in hot water—about 2.4 trillion gallons yearly.

This total is almost double the per capita amount of hot water used in the home 25 years ago, reports the A. O. Smith Corp.

It is estimated that 80 per cent of all water used in the home is hot. The hot water faucet is turned on 111 times a day in the average home. This total includes tub baths, ranging around 15 gallons for complete dunking, and about 32 ounces for grooming.

Besides higher health and sanitation standards, the big increase in hot water use during the last two decades arises from the growth of automatic washing machines and dishwashers.

The washing machine takes about 25 gallons a load and dishwashers require 7 gallons per load. Doing dishes by hand takes about 3 gallons, the company said.

Traffic Death Statistics No Longer Are Impersonal

"Her death was the ninth in Marin County traffic this year compared to eight at this date last year."

Nine times so far since Jan. 1 we have printed some such statistical report on Marin highway fatalities in the I-J.

But statistics are impersonal.

They say statistics tend to be dull reading.

The first eight such reports may have been dull reading to many of us, but the ninth fatality statistic hit us right between the eyes.

It was Kitty (Mrs. James L.) Heynemann of Belvedere. She was a dedicated worker in Marin Republican political circles and well-known to many.

The impersonal nature and "dullness" of traffic fatality statistics ended for many of us the moment Kitty Heynemann was killed in a highway accident during a rainstorm on Corte Madera grade one evening last week.

Even editorial writers who write exhortations to safe and cautious driving sometimes get tired of "preaching the same old sermon."

Then comes something like the Kitty Heynemann tragedy.

It leaves us "shook," as the contemporary expression puts it. We have got to redouble our efforts to turn out meaningful, effective editorials supporting all efforts at making our highways safer.

We hope the workmen hurry and finish the center divider barrier now under construction along Highway 101 in Southern Marin. We hope this is done before another suffers the fate of Mrs. Heynemann.

She was an energetic, cheerful, effective worker for the causes in which she believed.

We are going to miss her, an island of calm reason amid the political hysteria that is sure to develop as election-time approaches this year.

We extend our condolences to her husband and her son, and we pray for her daughter's recovery from the injuries suffered in the same accident that took Kitty Heynemann from among us.

Arbor Day, Plant A Tree

As April approaches, our thoughts turn to Arbor Day. Where will we plant a tree this year? And what kind?

Most Californians immediately think of the great botanist, Luther Burbank (who originally was a Marinite and whose family name still survives here) in connection with Arbor Day. It is a deserved tribute, but the founder of this holiday was a Nebraskan, J. Sterling Morton, who was secretary of agriculture in the administration of Grover Cleveland.

Mr. Morton was a plant-a-tree crusader. His efforts turned his home town of Nebraska City, Nebraska, from a treeless plain to a virtual forest glade of graceful trees.

No matter who founded Arbor Day, the idea of planting more trees to help add more beauty to bare spots in our county is a good one any time of year.

Vote Speedup Expected If Two Counties Jointly Use Machines

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The processes of electronic vote counting in California may be speeded up considerably as the result of a bill introduced in the state legislature by Assemblyman Tom Bane (D-North Hollywood).

Bane is chairman of the Assembly Rules Committee and one of the Democratic wheels in the lower house. He has done much to facilitate the organizational operation of the Assembly through improving procedures.

HIS MEASURE relating to the improvement and speeding up of vote counting would enable two or more political subdivisions to join together in the purchase and operation of high-speed vote tabulation equipment.

At present, through the efforts of Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan, state law provides that counties may install vote tabulating equipment. But there is no provision for two or more counties going together on leasing the equipment. In some cases, this may be too expensive for one county.

"THE VOTE tabulating devices which have been developed in recent years," Bane said, "are just too expensive to be owned or leased by many of our counties and cities. Permitting them to join together in acquiring ownership or use of such equipment will be an important step toward faster and more accurate election returns."

Bane pointed out that under his bill, several counties or cities in a given area could decide on a central location for an electronic vote tabulation and then get together for ballot counting on election night.

JORDAN SAID he was glad to see such a measure before the legislature, and pointed out that, if adopted, it would help get fast election results.

"In other words," Jordan said, "counties like Alameda and Contra Costa could join together for a vote count.

"The marvels of modern electrical computing and the development of fast transit make such combinations inevitable, and at a lower cost to the public, as one counting device can handle several counties in a short space of time."

The cost of the tabulating machines, Jordan said, has been one of the primary factors forestalling the installation of voting and counting equipment.

As a result, elections for the most part are handled in California not much different than they were in the horse and buggy days. With the growth in the number of electors in the state, some means of rapid voting and counting must be provided for, or the results of elections will be later and later.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

The Sausalito School District Board voted to ask at the May 21 school board election for continuance of the $1.30 general purpose tax rate limit for another three years.

Marin County Clerk George S. Jones was the first of nine incumbent county officials to pay a filing fee and receive a candidate's petition for the June 8 primary.

20 YEARS AGO

Tests for persons aged 17 to 21 wishing to join the Army Specialized Training Program or the Navy V-12 College training program were held at Tamalpais High School.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a bill restricting free travel on Golden Gate Bridge to personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Maritime Commission "while on business for the federal government."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

SOMETIMES THIS READER LOVES US; SOMETIMES HE HATES US

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Sometimes you are cranky, sarcastic and mad
And don't give a damn what you say
I can't understand what makes you so bad
I can't say I like you that way.

At times you're a darling, a pleasure to know
So cheerful, so happy and gay
You're then worth a million of any man's dough.
Ye gods how I love you that way.

Spiral Dive Is Explained

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Vertigo and instrument flying have no direct connection with the spiral dive.

I learned about the spiral dive as a youth when designing and building gas-powered model airplanes. Model planes must fly themselves with no pilot to control them and so they must have "dynamic stability." Thus, if any force acts on the plane, it will right itself. Torque is one of these forces, and torque combined with low dihedral angle is the root of the spiral dive, which inevitably ends in a crash.

Full-size light planes are designed with what is known as "static stability." This means, briefly, that if the plane is put in any particular attitude it has a tendency to stay there. However, there are few, if any, light planes that will fly straight and level continuously, if the controls are released.

Example—Light plane turn with static stability. The controls are used to put the plane in the desired turning attitude, then the controls are neutralized and the turn continued for as long as desired, then the controls are reversed to return the plane to straight and level flight, and then the controls are again neutralized to continue in this attitude.

Example—Light plane turn with dynamic stability. (Theoretically) the controls would be used to put the plane in the desired turning attitude, the controls then being held there to hold the plane in this attitude. Then simply release the controls to return to straight and level flight.

If light planes were designed with dynamic stability, a pilot caught in zero-visibility weather without instruments would at least be free of the danger of diving in. However, as it is, if a pilot be caught in zero weather without instruments, or with instruments and no training in their use, he is in grave danger of having torque gradually overpowering what little stability his plane has and a screaming graveyard dive results.

This is only a very superficial treatment of the subject, but all of the details are well known to any aircraft designer.

So why don't we have planes that will fly themselves? Perhaps away back in the days when this design control policy was thought out, it was decided that if airplanes needed little or no corrective control from the pilot, too many pilots would be going to sleep at the controls, thus causing as many or more accidents as the dreaded spiral dive.

Time To Get Tough With Disobedients

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The disgusting demonstration in the Sheraton-Palace should make evident to all people the way thing are progressing in the Civil Rights campaign. A bunch of students and adult delinquents who have no respect for property rights are able to hold up the business of the hotel, city officials and policemen, who knows at what cost to further their own irresponsible desire for "kicks." In my opinion it's about time we got tough with these civil disobedients, and treated them as trespassers and disturbers of the peace, as they deserve.

Unlimited Population Growth Is Criminal

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The I-J doesn't see how limiting the population of Marin is morally defensible. On the contrary, not limiting the population is immoral. Unlimited population growth is criminal in that it robs the public of beauty and tranquility while enriching the bold land speculators and bay fillers. This crime does pay—but very few. Such robbing of the public is anti-social, criminal activity and is self-destructive. If we allow unlimited population growth we allow the self-destruction of our lovely county.

It is not a God given right to destroy beauty, pollute streams and exploit land in the sadly abused name of free enterprise.

Population growth can be limited by getting more of the county into the state park system. Marin is the last bit of the bay area available for preservation. Will 'dynamic conservation' do it?

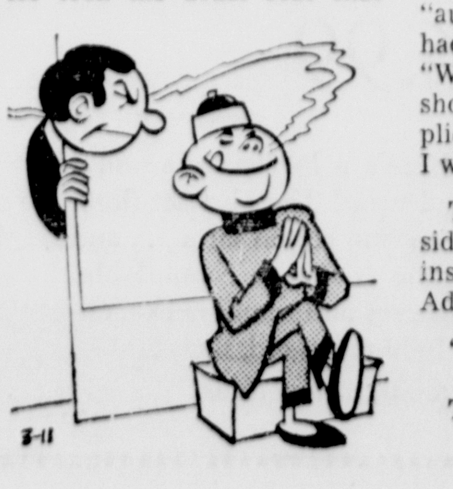
TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

CHINESE FABLE: A poor but honest laundryman maintained his modest establishment next door to a great big prosperous restaurant. Each day the laundryman would sit outside his shop, as near to the restaurant as he dared, and sniff the wonderful aromas from within.

One day the laundryman received a bill from his wealthy neighbor for "continuous smell of my food." He took his usual seat that afternoon with his tin money box in hand. After rattling it vigorously for a while, he cried to his creditor, "I hereby pay for the smell of your food with the SOUND OF MY MONEY."



PLAYWRIGHT and lyricist Howard Dietz was making a dignified exit from an off-Broadway revue in which at least four numbers had been brazenly copied from sketches of his own. The "author" of the new melange had the nerve to ask Dietz, "What did you think of the show, Howard?" Dietz replied, "I don't dare tell you. I would sound too conceited."

"It fills me full of joie de
viver
To look across the Hudson River."

Lodge Supporters Are Trying To Get Him Home For Campaign

HONG KONG — Henry Cabot Lodge's closest political supporters are using the highly pro-Lodge vote in New Hampshire to get him back to the United States to launch a full-scale personal campaign for the Republican nomination.

They are now telling the GOP's 1960 vice-presidential nominee that his chance of winning the top place on the 1964 ticket is so improved by his decisive victory in the first Presidential primary that he can't afford to throw away his prospects by remaining long in Saigon.

EVEN BEFORE the New Hampshire vote an emissary of the Draft-Lodge high command in Washington conferred secretly with the ambassador here in Hong Kong in mid-February and told him that a substantial write-in would transform his position overnight from dark horse to a leading contender.

The emissary was a Lodge intimate, retired businessman Irving Salomon of San Diego, an important financial backer and supporter of General Eisenhower.

THE ARGUMENT which Salomon made to Lodge at their unreported Hong Kong meeting was this:

—That a good showing in New Hampshire would definitely put the nomination within Lodge's reach if he were willing to make an all-out bid for it well before the San Francisco convention.

—That it would be essential for Lodge to return to the United States for a nationwide speaking tour and for a series of consultations with political leaders and delegates—if he is to have a good chance of converting a New Hampshire triumph into a convention victory.

THIS WAS the political appeal which was made to Lodge on behalf of his most influential backers just before the New Hampshire primary and there is good reason to report that double this pressure is reaching the ambassador in Saigon now that the New Hampshire returns gave him a winning margin over all other Republican aspirants for greater than anyone expected.

There is no doubt that Lodge was interested, impressed, undoubtedly tempted by this appeal. But he made no commitment.

However, his remarkable triumph in New Hampshire, in which, without his name's even appearing on the ballot, he outdistanced all the active campaigners including Goldwater and Rockefeller and the non-campaigning Nixon, puts Lodge in a real quandary and possibly opens his mind to a future change of political plans.

UNQUESTIONABLY Lodge would like the presidential nomination and he feels a duty to his supporters who are advancing his cause so effectively at home.

This is his dilemma. It is not a comfortable one to resolve.

When he accepted the Saigon post from President Kennedy six months ago, Lodge considered himself to be out of politics for all time.

IT WAS NOT a very diffidecision a few weeks ago to reject all appeals to return to the United States to campaign for the nomination when it looked as though he was a dark horse with only an outside chance of winning it.

It is a much harder decision today now that New Hampshire has propelled him to the forefront of the Republican contest.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Ban On Burton Would Include His Friends

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—The smoldering controversy over actor Richard Burton's eligibility under the immigration laws to enter the U. S. is spreading to include his director and other members of the cast.

Rep. Michael Feighan (D-Ohio), chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration, is challenging the "admissability" of Sir John Gielgud, the director, and other alien members of the Shakespearean cast on morals charges.

ACCORDING TO the records of Feighan's Immigration Subcommittee, Gielgud was convicted on Oct. 22, 1953, in the West London Magistrate's Court on the charge of "importuning male persons for immoral purposes." The evidence involved a 12-year-old boy. Gielgud was convicted and fined.

Despite this record, Feighan has ascertained that the State Department granted Gielgud a "waiver" to enter the U. S. to direct a production of "Hamlet" on Broadway next month. Burton is the star.

SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Rusk approved this "waiver" on the recommendation of Abba Schwartz, controversial head of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is being bluntly asked by Feighan to revoke Gielgud's "waiver." Feighan has made this demand in a formal letter and in several phone calls citing the morals conviction.

A KEY BACKGROUND figure in that highly organized and well-financed New Hampshire write-in drive for Kennedy was a close partisan of his—Paul Corbin of Wisconsin and former staff member of the Democratic National Committee.

In fact, there apparently was a direct connection between Corbin's backstage operations in New Hampshire and his sudden departure from the national committee. It was after this that he appeared in New Hampshire to spark-plug the campaign for a big write-in vote for Kennedy.

AS COMMITTEE insiders are relating the story, following is what happened:

National Chairman John Bailey was phoned by the White House and asked, "Do you know of one good reason why Corbin should be on the committee's staff? Think it over, and give us your answer by 9 o'clock tomorrow morning."

"I can give you the answer right away," replied Bailey. "I don't have to wait until tomorrow morning. I've been waiting for this word for a long time. I've wanted to get rid of Corbin for months. He was put on our staff by the attorney general, and that's the only reason he has been here.

"AS FAR AS I'm concerned, he's through today. If that's agreeable, I'll tell him right away."

"That's entirely agreeable," was the enthusiastic reply.

Bailey lost no time in telling Corbin he was through.

Shortly thereafter, Corbin appeared in New Hampshire and began firing up the write-in drive for his longtime mentor and patron.

Dog Days In Southern Marin, And Boy And His Dad In Rain

THE OTHER DAY Traute Plantz's white Russian Samoyed swallowed a fishhook rigged with bacon while Miss Plantz was fishing for bass from her balcony in Sausalito.

Not knowing what to do, Miss Plantz gave her dog, Oche Jornia, some sour bread and bacon. "I soon decided," she said, "that was the wrong thing to do and called my veterinarian."

After four days at the dog hospital on a diet of cotton soaked in olive oil, the fishhook left Oche Jornia. Miss Plantz, who is very thankful to the veterinarians, said she named her dog Oche Jornia because "his eyes are so dark and he lives in Sausalito."

HARRIET WILTON reports that there was a very old desert dog named Whiskers in Southern California who, given a hearing aid, thought it was a peanut, swallowed it and then ran into the house thinking it was going to storm.

Sally Clapp Stapp was in the office the other day and reported her Bedlington has cancer. "Dogs get everything humans do," she said.

Some people don't like dogs. Alfred (Pooch) Quartararo of Sausalito is trying to get even with a dog who jumped on his car and scratched the paint and, in Mill Valley, Cliff Petersen says he is going to make Irish stew out of the Irish setter, Rusty, who runs around Lytton Square with an overbark.

HE HAVE JUST learned of a retrieving cat who lives in Sausalito called Cocoa. Owner Swede Pedersen says his wife puts a cigarette package, rolled up into a ball, into a disposal can in the kitchen. The cat picks it out in her mouth, places it at Mrs. Pedersen's feet. Cocoa is a calico cat, which could mean something.

Last Wednesday we interviewed our first baby St. Bernard in the Wild West Shop in Tiburon. The six-week pup, Bernard, is from Drain, Ore., son of champion Sanctuary Woods Picasso, his father, and Sanctuary Woods Ziglande, his mother, who has two-thirds points toward her championship.

"Bernard has lots of savoir faire," says owner Audrey Doughty. "Nothing rattles him, large dogs, cats . . . . He sleeps a lot, prefers meat and only yelped once when he got caught behind a bookcase."

St. Bernards are still sent out by monks on the St. Bernard Pass in Switzerland to rescue travelers lost in the snow, said Audrey, and are used for avalanche control guards. "They have a sense of smell whereby they can smell someone buried 10 feet in the snow."

THAT SAME DAY we went to meet the San Francisco-Tiburon ferry and were soon joined by Bucky Sherwin who, wet from the rain, came to wait for his dad. Bucky, a fourth-grader at Reed, said he frequently meets his father at the ferry slip at the Dock Restaurant.

The boat docks a few minutes after 6, he said, and they walk to their home on the lagoon. "Sometimes several people meet the boat," he said, "sometimes no one."

It was windy and the bay was choppy when the Harbor King made port. Phil Ehrlich got off, said the trip was "fine." Bucky picked out his father, Elton B. Sherwin, who was carrying a brief case and who immediately sent up a big black umbrella.

"It was a little rocky tonight," said Sherwin, "but I find it a superb way of commuting."

Johnson's Press Conference Stuff Dreams Made Of—Puts You To Sleep

WASHINGTON— President Lyndon B. Johnson's latest press conference was considered one of his best. Instead of going on at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning, as he did the previous week, he selected the prime time of 3:30 in the afternoon, which should have given him a TV rating of .3 or one out of every 800,000 homes in the country.

To make sure the president wouldn't have too large an audience, the press conference wasn't announced until noon of the same day. And then to make sure that not everyone who tuned him in would listen to the press conference, the president spent the first nine minutes announcing appointments he had made, quoting from Dow-Jones averages, statistics of the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents and the cost-of-living index for January.

BUT YOU CAN'T keep up this kind of exciting news forever, and the fear in Washington is that the president, if he continues his Saturday press conferences, will soon run out of hard news.

We hate to imagine what will happen 20 Saturdays from now if the president keeps up this pace.

"Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen. I have a few announcements to make. My daughter Luci passed her algebra examination and Lynda has been invited to a dance next week in Annapolis. I wish to announce several important appointments. I am appointing John L. McQuade as night porter at the Sitting Bull, Wyo., courthouse for a four-year term. I am reappointing George Martin as a guard at Leavenworth Federal prison, and Harold Richmond has agreed to continue to continue to serve in his capacity at attendant at the Veterans Hospital in Denver.

"MY SEARCH FOR qualified women in government continues. I am happy to announce that Mrs. Gisella Meally has agreed to become an upstairs maid at the White House, and I have appointed Mrs. Carlton Peabody as assistant cook at Blair House. Miss Harriet Clingpeaches has agreed to serve as a baby-sitter at Oak Ridge, Tenn. Mrs. P. K. Wratingbottom, a prominent Kansas City matron, has been appointed chairman of the car pool at Thomas Jefferson High School.

"New den mother for the Cub Scouts in Washington, D. C., are as follows: Mrs. Samuel Lanahan, Mrs. John Lindsay, Mrs. Benjamin Bradlee, Mrs. Edward Streator, and Mrs. Carleton Kent.

"I have set up several new presidential committees. My first committee wall make a study of my war-on-electricity program. The committee will advise me on how we can eliminate electric light bulbs in the United States without hurting the economy. I have also appointed a committee to make a survey of cocktail parties as they affect our unemployment situation.

I HAVE ONE more announcement. I am happy to report that I am closing down the Post Office Department, which will save the American taxpayer 235 million dollars.

"I would now like to read the census figures for 1964 state by state. If we have any time after that, I would be glad to answer any questions."

Fairfax School Report Is Due

Progress reports from the citizens committee for schools and the citizens committee study group will be presented to the Fairfax School District board of trustees at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow at Central School.

Dist. Supt. Homer Sisk and William Lemley, teacher at Deer Park School, will report on the district's English program and the results of the state's testing program will be discussed.

Sisk will report to the board on the preliminary budget for the district and authorization will be requested to employ a firm to audit the financial accounts of the district.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sane Opponent Will Retain Some Protection In Key Suit

If you see a man taking off his overcoat in freezing weather you might suspect that he's wearing heavy woolen underwear.

Think about this when you're playing bridge: your opponents are not foolish enough to throw away their protection.

Opening lead — ♣ 10

West opened the 10 of clubs, and dummy's king won. Declarer cashed the ace of clubs next, and West discarded the deuce of diamonds.

GOOD FRIEND

My good friend J. J. Parish, who held the South cards, knew that West wasn't crazy.

West was looking at dummy's diamonds and presumably understood that those diamonds would play a vital role in the slam. What made West think that he could afford to discard a diamond?

If West had started with even the lowest missing diamonds, he would save them. If West had started with any four diamonds, he would know better than to throw one away.

NOT YET HOME

Only one conclusion was possible. West had started with all five of the missing diamonds.

Parish was not home even after working out the location of the diamonds. He still had to execute a swindle against West.

Declarer got to his hand with a spade and innocently returned the seven of diamonds. Not suspecting the danger, West played the six of diamonds. Thereupon Parish let the seven of diamonds ride for a finesse.

STRANGE TRICK

After winning this strange first trick in diamonds Parish could lead another diamond through West. No matter how he struggled, West could get only one diamond trick, and Parish made his slam contract.

If West had realized that his discard had revealed the diamond situation, he would have put up the ten of diamonds when South led the seven.

West would play a high diamond likewise on the next round of diamonds and would eventually get two diamond tricks.

QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ 10 9 5 3
♥ 8 7 4 2
♦ None
♣ 9 8 5 4 2

Answer: Pass.

You are horrified at the contract, of course, but any bid with this ghastly hand might make matters far worse. It's better to go down undoubled at one diamond than doubled at some higher contract.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, March 16, the 76th day of 1964 with 290 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1802, an act of Congress authorized establishment of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, New York.

In 1935, Adolf Hitler scrapped the Versailles Treaty and re-established universal military training in Germany.

In 1945, Japanese resistance on Iwo Jima ended with American casualties totaling more than 20,000, including 4,300 dead.

In 1962, the first test firing of the Titan-2 missile from Cape Kennedy was successful.

A thought for the day: Author Nathaniel Hawthorne said: "The black flower of civilized society, a prison."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

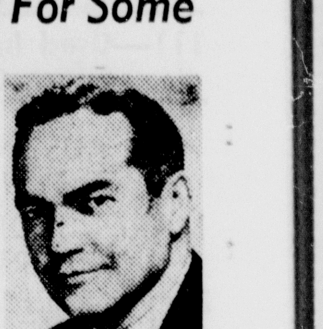
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Transplanting Hair To Bald Spots Seems To Be Working Out For Some



VAN DELLEN

Two years ago we reported good news for baldies—the successful transplantation of tufts of hair from the fringes on the scalp to denuded areas. The plugs taken from the hairy regions were grafted onto the shiny top in much the same way as a lawn is sodded with bent grass. Since the original report, other physicians have confirmed the efficacy of the technique.

The bare spots are anesthetized and small (1-7-inch) circular incisions are made with a special surgical punch. Other areas of equal size are punched on the hairy parts of the scalp, usually the fringe. Grafts are removed and fitted into place to that growth will be in the desired direction. The transplants show signs of taking root within 48 hours.

THE REDISTRIBUTED tufts usually fall out in three weeks and regrowth can be expected within eight to 10 weeks. Meanwhile, the lines left by the surgical punch heal and are barely visible because of the covering of hair.

Good cosmetic results are obtained when the patches are planted in the right spots, properly spaced. In receding hairlines, the patches can be inserted above the forehead and, when the hair grows long enough, it can be combed back to cover the top of the scalp. In others, the fringe is rearranged so it will blend with the edge of the toupee.

BUT WITH the good comes the bad. The male type baldness follows a progressive pattern. What happens when the divot is removed from a part of the scalp destined to become bald in a year or two? The follicles are not aware that they have been relocated and fall out, according to their time schedule. Fringe hair, however, is likely to last a lifetime. Some day our researchers may be able to work out a share-the-hair project with bears or the Beatles.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

FRUITS AND BURNING

L. R. writes: Whenever I eat a tomato or an orange, I get burning urine. Does this mean I have something wrong with the bladder?

REPLY

This is doubtful because burning should occur at other times if inflammation of the bladder is present. Some persons eract oddly to these fruits, possibly because they are allergic to them. On the other hand, burning may occur if the urine is too concentrated or too acid.

CAN'T GET PUDSE

H. H. writes: What can you tell me about pulseless disease?

REPLY

In this condition, an artery that brings blood to an arm and one side of the brain is obstructed, usually as a result of arteriosclerosis. The victim may develop dizziness, headache, faintness or trouble talking or using the involved arm and leg. The pulse cannot be felt and the blood pressure is almost nil on that side.

DISTURBED DIGESTION

J. S. writes: In what way does improper intestinal function interfere with digestion?

REPLY

There are various ways in which this could happen. Overactivity of the stomach and intestine, for example, does not allow enough time for food to digest. Another illustration is a deficiency of certain enzymes, which interferes with the chemical aspects of digestion.

KIDNEY PROBLEMS

B. T. writes: Could a kidney disorder exist that would not show up in a urinalysis?

REPLY

Yes. Examples are a renal stone and circulatory changes in the kidneys.

History Of Skin Disease Of Slight Hope To Victims

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—A newly written "natural history" of the itchy skin disease which is connected somehow with allergies, (although medical science doesn't know just how,) offered little hope to its many victims. And it only accented its mysteries.

Its average duration among long-term victims who provided facts for this "natural history" was about 30 years. The longest single duration among them was 63 years. The disease is atopic dermatitis. It is an on-and-off itchiness and is believed due to deep-down allergic reactions.

Among the now historical victims 55 per cent were also given to asthma, hay fever, hives, migrane headaches, and allergic rhinitis which is a runny nose not caused by the common cold. All this emphasized its connection to the generalized allergic state called "atopy."

In 66 per cent there was a family background of atopy. On the other hand the attacks of itchiness were brought on most frequently by nervous tension and fatigue in 80 per cent. This gave some support to a psychiatric theory that it has some connection with unconscious emotional conflicts.

Furthermore, many of the victims found relaxation and release of tension the most effective remedy. But avoiding the substances to which they were allergice was also effective.

The history-takers were Drs. Harry L. Roth and Robert R. Kierland of the Mayo Clinic and Foundation of Rochester, Minn. They reported to a technical organ of the American Medical Assn.

They questioned 492 persons who were treated for atopic dermatitis in the Mayo Clinic 20 years ago to find out how they had fared meanwhile. They were divided between "severe" and "mild" cases.

Of the latter only 40 per cent reported joyfully that evidently the disease was no longer with them. Of the "severe" cases this no-disease-now rate was 29 per cent.

Cataracts and pneumonia sometimes are associated with atopic dermatitis. Roth and Kierland found the rate that could be expected was 4 per cent for the "mild" and 13 per cent for the "severe" as regards cataracts and 13 per cent for pneumonia.

But they reminded that an association with pneumonia was not surprising since asthma is associated with the skin disease and asthma interferes with proper breathing which could make lungs susceptible to infection.

Climate has important bearing on the course of the disease. About one-half the victims got their worst flareups in winter months, although 12 per cent said their bad times were in the summer.

Of the total victims 271 had to escape their disease by moving to states with year-round mild climates. Of these 71 per cent said it had worked to an appreciable degree while 18 per cent said it had not helped and 11 per cent said their disease had worsened.

Roth and Kierland recorded the "natural history" in search of an answer to the question, "What is the natural course of the disease?" The textbooks, they said, are vague about it and they wanted to fill the gap.

'May In Marin' A Month-Long Festival

Marin County will be the host in May for a month-long festival of major proportion called "May in Marin," Charles D. Helbig, president of the Marin Visitors Bureau, announced today.

Kicking off the festival the afternoon of May 1, will be a civic luncheon with George B. Hartzog, director of the National Parks Service as the main speaker.

Major events listed by Helbig include: A concert by the San Francisco Symphony, a two-hour parade in downtown San Rafael, complete with floats and marching bands, a jazz concert starring Dave Brubeck and his quartet, and a "Youth in Marin Day" at which youth groups will put on demonstrations and displays.

Civic groups and organizations throughout the county will participate in the "May in Marin" festival, which is being coordinated by the Marin Visitors Bureau.

Helbig said "May in Marin" is intended to spotlight Marin County regionally and nationally as a recreational and cultural center.

The concert by the San Francisco Symphony, sponsored by the Dominican Convent Alumnae Assn. will be held May 2 at Forest Meadows. Josef Krips will conduct an all-Beethoven program.

The San Rafael Chamber Retail Merchants Committee is sponsoring the downtown parade, slated for the morning of May 2. Television star Marshall J will be the parade marshal.

The "Brubeck Salutes Marin" jazz concert, sponsored by Guide Dogs for the Blind, will be the evening of May 21 at the College of Marin stadium.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Clubs, Y.M.C.A., C.Y.O. and Jewish Community Center are among groups expected to participate in "Youth in Marin Day," slated for May 23 at Albert Field.

Helbig said that many Marin County activities normally taking place during the month of May will tie in with the festival. They include, for example:

The Tamalpais Mountain Play, May 17 and 24, the Stinson Beach Wildflower Show, May 2, the Loyalty Day parade in Novato, and the Performing Arts Festival at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross the weekend of May 30.

Other such special events include a Marin Symphony Guild wine tasting party, a West Marin bus tour and barbecue, and tennis and bowling tournaments.

DRY DAYS, FRUIT BLAMED

Marin Bee Swarms Are Already Here

Marin's long dry spell this year and the excellent blooms on fruit and ornamental trees have increased the brood rearing of bees.

With these conditions has come the first report of "swarming bees" to county agricultural commission from Dr. and Mrs. William Alex of 53 Tamalpais Avenue, Mill Valley.

Mrs. Alex reported to police that a "dark cloud of bees" swarmed around her home and settled in the gable of the roof. "I asked if anyone were missing a colony but they seemed to be wild ones," she said. "When no one wanted them, I was afraid they might harm the children and was advised to call an exterminator."

Swarming bees are not unusual but merely a yearly cycle that bees follow, said R. Allan Ballard, assistant agricultural commissioner. But he said it is early to receive swarming reports. They usually come in April and May when it starts to warm up.

Ballard explained that increases in brood rearing causes overcrowding of the hive and from this the old queen leaves with a new swarm. The swarms do not fly very far generally, soon forming a dense cluster until a new home is found.

"Swarming bees are quite gentle and should be left alone," Ballard said. "If they must be removed for safety sake, we suggest that a pest control operator be contacted as, to date, we have no hobbyists who wish any new swarms."

Ballard said commercial beekeepers generally do not take swarming bees as there is a possibility of affecting their apiaries with American or European foul brood.

The two diseases, he said, mainly attack the larval stage of the bee and weaken or entirely kill the colony.

Gnoss To Install Senior Citizens

William Gnoss, chairman of the Marin County Boad of Supervisors, will install new officers of the Novato Senior Citizens Club Wednesday at the Novato Community House.

New officers include president Anthony Franklin, vice president, Eva Whittaker, secretary, Iva Stephens, and treasurer Arvid Burg.

A St. Patrick pot luck dinner of Irish stew, corned beef and cabbage will be served at 6:30 p.m.

Two Women Take Peace Corps Exam

Two women took Peace Corps examinations Saturday at the San Rafael Post Office, according to civil service examiner E. A. Rossi.

The tests are given regularly at post offices all over the country to determine whether would-be volunteers have the necessary skills, knowledge and language aptitude to become members of the corps.

Next such test will be given in Room 7 of the post office starting at 8:30 a.m., April 25, Rossi said.

PROPOSED RED HILL SCHOOL—Drawing by architects Charles W. Callister and J. Martin Rosse shows the proposed Red Hill School, slated to be constructed on former Sunny Hills property in San Anselmo, pending the outcome of an election on a $700,000 bond issue and $500,000 state loan in the San Anselmo Elementary School District April 14.

San Anselmo School Plans Up To Voters

Construction of a new school, the Redhill School on former Sunny Hills property in San Anselmo depends upon the voters April 14, the San Anselmo Citizens Committee for Schools declared today.

Residents of the San Anselmo elementary School District will vote on a $700,000 bond issue and a $500,000 state loan.

A "yes" vote is needed to relieve the "serious overcrowding that now exsits," the committee said. A two-third majority is necessary for passage of the bonds and approval of the loan.

If the issues pass, the district will construct the new school in two stages, six classrooms to be ready in 18 to 24 months and an additional 11 classrooms as needed during the next six years, the committee said.

"The alternatives are double sessions, split grades, larger classes and inter-school transporting of students by bus," the committee declared.

The bond issue and state loan will take care of school needs for the next seven to 10 years, the committee said. Along with the new schools, the funds would finance expansion at Hidden Valley and Sleepy Hollow Schools.

"These facilities are needed to accomodate the 400 to 500 additional students who will enter the schools during the next five to six years," the committee said.

Plans call for adding three classrooms plus library, multipurpose room and administrative facilities at Hidden Valley School over a four-year period.

An addition would be constructed at Sleepy Hollow School, making the present library available as a classroom.

"Of 21 notable civilizations, 19 perished not from conquest from without, but from decay from within."

Many Americans are concerned about the ease of life in our country today—and what it may do to our children. Will the "soft living" of our times bring a continuing decline in their physical and moral stamina? This could happen if our children aren't encouraged to develop their bodies as well as their minds. Parents should insist on a minimum of 15 minutes of vigorous activity each school day—for every boy and every girl. Tell your school officials about your concern. For information about a program that your school—any school—can put into effect promptly, write the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Valley School Pupils Tell Tersely Of Mexico Trip

When it comes to terse writing, pupils of the Valley School of Forest Farm rival the late Ernest Hemingway.

Recently returned from a four-week trip to Mexico, they wrote their impressions in brief, concise reports.

Commenting on shopping in Guadalajara, one pupil wrote, "The Mexican shopkeeper expects the buyer to bargain or he will think him a stupid tourist."

On a bull fight, another wrote: "When the bull got tired the matador took out the sword and charged the bull. He stuck the sword in the bull and all his helpers came out and confused the bull."

On a carnival at Guaymas: "Other stands had the little eggs which someone cracked over your head, so that confetti went all over your hair, neck and shoulders. Gradually people would come and crack an egg over your head. Finally we got so mad that we bought eggs and paid back the people who had been hitting us for the longest."

On a boat trip through the jungle at San Blas: "Our guide told us that there was an alligator in back of us. . Six of the people in the boat saw the alligator and one didn't."

The 14 pupils, two teachers and four parents toured Mexico last month aboard three Volkswagen buses.

The trip was undertaken to give the pupils a chance to study a different culture, said Pat Herron, a teacher at the experimental school in Forest Knolls.
